Dear Alumni/ae, Parents, and Friends:

“Sports do not build character. They reveal it.”
— James Michener, Sports in America

It is my pleasure to reveal all of the character and characters that Yale Athletics produced during the 2009–2010 academic year. From student-athletes and coaches to fans and volunteers, it has been an incredible year in Ray Tompkins House. We brought home championships, constructed new facilities, welcomed new faces, and celebrated the long and loyal service of those who retired. Through all of this, we maintained our commitment to integrity, competitiveness, and providing all those affiliated with Yale Athletics with a world-class experience.

Character is truly revealed in the demanding times — trials allow us to clear our vision, strengthen our mission and achieve success. This year, as with the year before, brought its own financial challenges but all those in the Yale Athletics family rose to the occasion. Coaches and student athletes continued to represent Yale with pride, always focusing on the positive impact their performance has on the university. Volunteers and donors continued to step-forward and demonstrate the importance of athletics in the overall Yale experience, despite the challenges such sacrifices may have imparted. Heartfelt thanks to all of you who provided the manpower and financial support that allow us to focus on being the “champion of champions.” Your efforts prove that sports, and sports at Yale in particular, expose the greatest characters.

I am confident that 2010–2011 will be filled with as many spectacular revelations as this past year, as we remain steadfast in our quest to win championships and help create the leaders of tomorrow. Efforts continue to raise money for our coaching and programmatic endowments, and more than ever, our Sport Associations and the Ray Tompkins Associates. We hope you will consider making an impact — any gift of any size will make a difference. A donor form and reply envelope are included in this booklet for your convenience, or if you are viewing it online, please visit https://ces.commerce.yale.edu/givingtoyale/gifts.cgi.

Thank you for being a part of the Yale Athletics team and for enhancing our tradition of excellence. All the best!

Sincerely yours,

Director of Athletics
Yale University offers its students a liberal education, one which has its focus on the intellectual and moral development of the individual, and which gives students a foundation for learning throughout their lives. Yale has long recognized that such an education is not fostered by its academic component alone. Part of it is constituted by those challenging and pleasurable experiences and extracurricular activities—like varsity and recreational athletics—that enable an individual to give fuller force to academic training.

Goals in support of the Yale Athletics mission

- Yale is strongly committed to equal opportunity, and affirmatively seeks to attract exceptionally qualified students, coaches and staff of diverse backgrounds to its ranks.
- Through its commitment to competitive athletics, Yale demonstrates that learning how to strive to win, to compete with pride and honor, to make sacrifices, to persevere when all seems lost, and to develop a sense of obligation and responsibility for others are lessons which make athletics a school for accomplishment and character for the individual.
- Yale requires that aspiration and achievement in competitive athletic endeavor play a proportioned role within any student's school life.
- Support of a wide range of extracurricular programs presents significant opportunities for recreational and instructional participation by all students. The programs offer an important contribution to the well-being of members of its community.
Our Philosophy and Objectives

Competitive Excellence
- Each sport program to finish first in the Ivy League.
- Prepare and maintain the athletics facilities at the highest standard of Division I competition; display the pride in our facilities through increased exhibition through websites and pamphlets.
- Provide the highest quality and state of the art training equipment for our athletes.
- Continue to identify and matriculate impact prospects. Yield 95% of the admitted candidates who receive athletic distinction.
- Continue the success of the Kiphuth Leadership Academy to train students and staff in the principles of leadership; provide increased nutritional and sports psychology counseling to students and staff; continue to invite guest speakers to conduct workshops on topics of interest.
- Continue to provide Ivy League championship opportunities for club sports programs.
- Review, identify and streamline the use of recruiting technology.

Fiscal Responsibility
- Streamline and clearly define authorization process for all fiscal transactions.
- Provide ongoing review, communication and training for all internal and university fiscal policies and procedures.
- Investigate and identify the support needs of coaching staff in processing all financial transactions.
- Continue to investigate the use of one account for team revenue and expenses that combines general appropriation and association accounts.
- Explore additional initiatives for cost-effective and collective bidding/purchasing (e.g., equipment, supplies, shuttle buses, recruiting technology, phones, use of existing discounts, per diems, purchasing vs. leasing, house rentals vs. hotel arrangements).
- Continue to identify and establish strategies for maximum obligation of equipment through sharing and full expenditure of on hand supplies.

- Increase departmental awareness and identify areas of sustainability. Think Green.
- Departmental review of workplace efficiency relating to staffing and workflow process.

Positive Work Environment
- Continue to provide avenues for staff involvement in all departmental goals, work environment improvements and general policies and procedures and encourage new ideas, venues for improvements.
- Continue to provide ongoing training and professional development opportunities for all staff.
- Maintain a professional and positive work environment.
- Establish a coach mentoring program.
- Strive to improve time management skills throughout department — less crisis management.
Superior Customer Service

• Continue to develop and expand media accessibility for varsity contests (e.g. video streaming).
• Continue to improve and maximize our first class, “first impressions” including: facility cleanliness and appearance (including offices, hallways, and bathrooms); increases signage; RTH entry and reception desk and Varsity Room.
• Maximize staff identification in key customer areas (e.g. clothing, badges, nameplates).
• Professional, courteous, prompt and effective communication with all visitors, callers and fellow staff, particularly the frontline staff.
• Think/Act “Outside the Box” mentality and attitude for all staff not only to provide superior customer service to visitors and callers, but to facilitate new, fresh and novel ideas and communications between fellow co-workers and contacts throughout the University, making the process new, exciting and challenging.

Yale Tomorrow

• Continue to identify and cultivate alumni who can help support our programs as well as provide opportunities to connect them to Yale Athletics.
• Develop a program to help coaches and associations raise money for special projects/needs for their program.
• Provide coaches and staff training and education on successful fundraising techniques.
• Continue to provide awareness as to the positive role everyone has in “fund-raising” for athletics.
• Identify and cultivate younger alumni/ae and connect them to our programs.

Endowment Update

Endowing a head coach position is an important way to ensure the university’s ability to attract an outstanding coach, educator, and mentor whose leadership is essential to the success of a Division I athletic program. This permanent fund also honors the incumbent and affirms the importance of the appointment throughout the Ivy League and all of collegiate athletics.

In addition, programmatic endowments also make an impact on our teams as they provide perpetual funding for operational expenses. The following programmatic endowments were added to the Athletics portfolio this year:

- Jack Embersits Athletics Fund
- Jack Embersits Football Fund
- The Johnson Family Fund for Women’s Hockey
- The Lykouretzos Family Fund for Football
- The Whitehall Fund for the Cullman–Heyman Tennis Center
- The William Clay Ford Club Sports Endowment

Yale Tomorrow includes an historical campaign for athletics, focusing on facility renovations and program endowments, which will provide the next generation of Yale student-athletes with the resources necessary to achieve continued excellence both in the classroom and on the playing fields. This ambitious campaign requires support in three key areas:

- Continue to attract the best coaches and athletes. In a highly competitive environment, new endowments for coaching positions will give Yale the edge it needs to recruit and retain the very best people.
- Renew our facilities. In the next decade we aim to enhance the breadth and quality of many of our sports venues to guarantee that our teams are performing in some of the top collegiate facilities in the nation.
- Fully support our athletic programs. New endowments will ensure access to the equipment, training, and travel funds our student-athletes need to perform at the highest level, while also ensuring that all members of the Yale community are given broad support to partake in sports and recreation at a variety of levels.

Yale Tomorrow & Endowment Update

Meyer Humanitarian Award

This was the second year for the Meyer Award, which is named in honor of Molly Meyer, a nurse practitioner at Yale University Health Services who has been addressing the health needs of student-athletes at Yale since 1975. The award is given each year to a varsity athlete in the senior class whose character exemplifies selfless devotion along with compassion and concern for their team and the community at Yale and beyond. The award winners were Stephanie Colantonio of the field hockey team and Ben Wescoe of the men's golf team.

Colantonio won all three major awards the Yale field hockey team has during her career, including the Coaches Award, the Walton Award and the Senior Award. Noted for her team-first attitude, she was also extensively active in community service. That included volunteering as a mentor at a local school and taking part in the field hockey team’s annual ‘Fun Day’ with Dwight Elementary School. She was also involved with Students for Organ Donation as well as Community Health Educators. Additionally, she worked at the Yale Parenting Center and Child Conduct Clinic, in addition to the Yale Stress Center.

Wescoe was a leader both on and off the golf course for the Bulldogs. He spearheaded the creation of a golf program this winter that allowed more than a dozen students from a local New Haven middle school (St. Martin De Porres) to have weekly 60-minute instruction/golf education sessions with Yale team members in the indoor team room.

Rededication of Ingalls

Yale University rededicated David S. Ingalls Rink on January 16th, 2010 following the eighteen-month expansion and renovation. With more than 200 guests in attendance, the ceremony celebrated Yale benefactors including Lois and Roland W. Betts ’68 as well as Diana D. ’72 and Michael C. ’67 Brooks and Cynthia K. and Andrew T. Dwyer ’71, for whom the Brooks-Dwyer Varsity Strength and Conditioning Center is named.

Redmond Ingalls ’98 and Rebekah Ingalls ’83 were also recognized for their family’s continued commitment to Yale Hockey.

The highlight of the renovation is the underground addition of a Varity Team Center, providing 14,000 square feet for locker rooms, a medical room, strength and conditioning facility, a study space, and offices. The renovation also provided a fresh skating surface and dehumidification system, brighter overhead lighting, and new seats. The press boxes and ticket booths were refurbished, along with the concession and restroom areas.

Ingalls Rink was designed by renowned architect Eero Saarinen ’34, who practiced in Hamden, Connecticut, until his death in 1961. His successor firm Kevin Roche John Dinkeloo & Associates, LLC, worked to preserve his design while providing exceptional, modernized amenities. The “Yale Whale,” nicknamed because of its hump-backed, arching roof, has been the home of men’s hockey since 1958 and women’s hockey since 1977.

Dedication of Kenney Center & Jensen Plaza

The opening of the Kenney Center and Jensen Plaza marked the final phase of the $30 million restoration of the 95-year-old Yale Bowl, a national historic landmark. Over 250 people were in attendance of the dedication on November 21st, 2009.

The Kenneys are the only four-brother football combination in Yale history. Jerome Kenney, Brian R. Kenney ’61, Robert D. Kenney ’67 and Richard L. Kenney ’71 all played for the Elis and together made a gift to name the Kenney Center. Robert’s son, Jeffrey S. Kenney ’93, also played football at Yale. The Kenney Center, which replaces the old halftime room, contains team meeting rooms, an alumni area with views to the field, and a rooftop terrace that provides a panoramic look at most of the Yale athletic facilities around the Bowl.

Jensen Plaza—named to recognize the gifts of Irving F. Jensen Jr. ’54, Colin C. Jensen ’57, Erik M. Jensen ’63, and Mark R. Jensen ’67—is a place for fans to gather before and after games.
Yale University announced the construction of Phase II of the Reese Stadium this past fall. Phase II, which is projected to be completed in 10 months, will consist of a new stadium structure which will include four team rooms, expanded bleachers, a press box, VIP seating areas and an entryway plaza. It will also feature the names of all former soccer and lacrosse players on the archways leading into the stadium.

This news is the culmination of the extraordinary recent efforts of the Yale Soccer and Lacrosse Associations’ “Winning Goal Campaign,” and their work in conjunction with the staff of both the Athletic and Development offices. In addition, leadership donors Jon Reese ’90 and Jason Reese ’87, the Kempner family, and an anonymous soccer match gift were an integral part of this project’s success.

All of those involved with the facility upgrade, including the coaches agree that it will be a boon for recruiting for the next generation of Ivy Champions to New Haven and a venue that all former players would take great pride in visiting.
Blue Leadership Ball

The Retirement of Frank Keefe

Frank Keefe’s 32 year tenure with Yale men’s and women’s swimming was honored on April 24th, 2010. Over 500 alumni and friends of Yale Swimming came to celebrate the retirement of the Robert J.H. The celebration and honor was illustrated through a number of speakers, which included alumni and friends of Keefe’s. Keefe was also presented with three special gifts, which included the Kiputh Medal, one of the highest awards presented by Yale Athletics. The Kiputh Medal recognizes men and women distinguished in the fields of physical training, sport, sports writing, physiology, literature and the arts to visit the Yale campus. It was made clear that Frank’s role as a mentor and coach put him in equal company as previous recipients of the medal.

Therefore, the staff is committed to providing opportunities at all levels for the entire Yale community. The specific purposes of the club sports and recreational activities at Yale are to fill the need for uniquely structured sport activities that may be competitive, recreational, or instructional in nature and to provide a learning experience through student involvement in fund raising, organization, administration, budgeting, leadership, and scheduling, in addition to athletic skill in a favorite sport.

Marrow Donor Testing Drive
Another HUGE Success

Yale Athletics hosted the National Marrow Donor Program Drive this spring and tested over 900 students, faculty and staff in a single afternoon, a record breaking number for the second annual “Get in the Game. Save a Life.” marrow donor testing drive. The marrow donor testing drive was led by the Yale football and women’s ice hockey teams, in honor of women’s ice hockey member Mandi Schwartz, who is currently battling leukemia and in need of a donor. The drive was part of the “Get in the Game. Save a Life.” campaign, which started in 1992 at Villanova under the guidance of head football coach Andy Talley. To date the program has resulted in more than 3,500 potential donors being tested, including some patient matches.

The record-breaking end result was a tribute to the way the drive attracted support from all areas of the Yale campus and beyond. In addition to being tested themselves, members of the football and women’s ice hockey teams were each encouraged to sign up as many people in advance as possible. The Bulldogs had tested a record 704 people at last year’s drive -- and since all of those people were now already in the National Marrow Donor Program’s Be the Match Registry, the two teams would have to find hundreds upon hundreds of new registrants this year in order to meet their goal of saving lives and keeping their record intact. The Bulldogs rallied together and shattered their own record by signing up 911 potential donors. The importance of the drive was hammered home throughout the Yale campus in a multitude of ways, including a front-page story in the Yale Daily News Thursday that detailed both Schwartz’ need for a donor and one of the success stories from last year’s drive – Jim Owen, a Yale employee who got tested and eventually made a life-saving donation.

In the end, the Bulldogs succeeded through teamwork and planning. With Schwartz as their inspiration, they tapped into a community spirit that extended well beyond the Yale campus. The ultimate goal is to find a match not just for Mandi, but for many others like her. The Yale campus and everyone who donated gave more hope to those patients out there in need of a match.
In the following pages, we recognize the generosity of alumni, parents, and friends, as well as the dedication of our volunteers who support Yale Athletics with their time and talents. Your contributions are critical to sustaining excellence at Yale Athletics today — and in the future.

Yale Sport Associations form a special team of Yale's faithful that make them integral to the success of all of our teams. Their support fosters a tradition of excellence that guarantees the current and future generations of Yale athletes are ensured an unparalleled athletic experience.

Each of Yale's 35 varsity teams are supported by their respective sport association. Associations consist of former athletes, alumni/ae, parents, and friends who feel passionate about a specific team at Yale.

Association Mission and Core Values

The mission of the Yale Sport Associations is to enhance the athletic experience of our current student-athletes, alumni/ae and friends of all Yale sports. This is accomplished in a variety of ways, most notably through:

- Preserving the traditions of Yale athletics
- Hosting of special events including alumni/ae games and barbecues and golf outings
- Offering career networking and job placement opportunities
- Providing consistent communication about the teams through emails and printed newsletters

In addition, the Yale Sport Associations fundraise to provide unrestricted annual-use funds to be utilized at the discretion of the Director of Athletics towards the highest priorities of the department. Specifically, these donations furnished awards such as varsity letter sweaters, supplemented funding for training trips, and enhanced our team rosters by providing coaches with the necessary funding to scan the nation for the next All-Ivy player. The Ray Tompkins Associates enables the department to underwrite projects for all of Yale Athletics that require financial resources above and beyond those allocated by the University. We encourage all friends of Yale Athletics to become members of both the Ray Tompkins Associations and their favorite sport association with an additional gift. Membership in RTA has benefits above and beyond those of the Sport Associations, including invitations to special Athletic events, discounts on Yale Athletics gear, and discounts with local merchants.
