YALE ATHLETICS
YEAR IN REVIEW
Yale University offers its students a liberal education, one which has as its focus the intellectual and moral development of the individual, and which gives students a foundation for learning throughout their lives. Yale has long recognized that such an education is not fostered by its academic component alone. Part of it is constituted by those challenging and pleasurable experiences and extracurricular activities – like varsity and recreational athletics – that enable an individual to give fuller force to academic training.

In athletics, as everywhere else in the University, Yale is strongly committed to equal opportunity, and affirmatively seeks to attract exceptionally qualified students, coaches and staff of diverse backgrounds to its ranks.

As a part of its great athletic tradition, Yale sponsors over thirty varsity teams, with broad opportunities for participation by men and women, in which athletes of proven ability have the opportunity to test their skill and valor in intercollegiate competition. Through its commitment to competitive athletics, Yale demonstrates its belief that the lessons such engagement teaches are many and enduring. Among these are learning how to strive to win, to compete with pride and honor, to make sacrifices, to persevere when all seems lost, and to develop a sense of obligation and responsibility for others. These lessons make athletics a school for accomplishment and character, and for the athlete they represent an invaluable part of the non-academic aspects of a liberal education.

Because Yale views athletics as a component of liberal education, complementary to its central academic mission but not superior to it, the University requires that aspiration and achievement in competitive athletic endeavor play a proportioned role within any student’s school life. The University also subscribes to the Ivy agreement, the principles of which delimit the role competitive athletic endeavor play in the life of the University or of any individual student within it. These principles include the belief that student athletes should be generally representative of their class and admitted on the basis of academic promise and personal qualities as well as athletic abilities; that financial aid to student athletes be awarded in the same way it is awarded to other students, that is solely on the basis of financial need; that student athletes be held accountable to the same academic standards as other students; and that athletes make normal academic progress toward their degrees.

In addition to its sponsorship of competitive sports, Yale supports a wide range of extracurricular programs, including those which present significant opportunities for recreational and instructional participation. The University provides supervision for over thirty club sports, and has developed a large intramural program, which present undergraduates, graduate students, and faculty fellows with the opportunity to participate in competitive sports throughout the calendar year. Yale considers the opportunities it offers in these areas to be an important contribution to the well-being of members of its community and is as dedicated to these extracurricular activities as to the continued strength of its competitive programs. In all aspects of sport and recreation, the University recognizes that shared experience can help create a strong bond among members of the University community, and between the University community and alumni, and it is committed to fostering the spirit of pride and fellowship that athletic endeavor can develop.
Dear Alumni/ae, Parents, and Friends:

It has been another great year for Yale Athletics and we are excited to highlight the tremendous accomplishments from 2007-2008 in our second edition of the Yale Athletics Year in Review.

We hope this synopsis of the 2007-2008 year emphasizes all that we value in the Yale Athletic Department. Our mission statement reflects a commitment to all levels of competition, the important balance between academics and athletics, and the role athletics can play in fostering the bonds between the University, alumni/ae, and the community. We hope you enjoy learning about the success that all of those affiliated with Yale Athletics have had in strengthening that entire mission over the past year. From Ivy League Championships and Ivy League Players of the Year, to NCAA Post-Graduate Scholarships and Academic All-Americans – this year was one to be exceptionally proud of!

All of us at Yale Athletics recognize it would not be possible to set such lofty goals in support of our mission without the dedication of our 7,500 alumni/ae, parents, and friends who support all of our endeavors. Your generous donations to the Ray Tompkins Associates, our Sport Associations, head coach and program endowments, facility projects, and other important areas help us provide a world-class experience for our 840 student-athletes and 200 coaches and staff. As importantly, you guarantee that the thousands of individuals who use our facilities for club sports, intramurals, and recreation enjoy a wide array of opportunities. All of these contributions ensure that the next generation of students who represent Yale in the athletic arena are among the best and brightest in the entire world.

The Yale Tomorrow campaign continues to present us with an opportunity to bring our athletic programs to an unprecedented level in our storied history. We are currently moving forward with large-scale renovations to the Cullman-Heyman Tennis Center, Ingalls Rink, Reese Stadium, and Yale Bowl Phase II. In addition, we continue to raise money towards coaching and programmatic endowments, which enjoy the same growth as the overall University endowment being managed by David Swensen ’76 MA and his staff. We hope you will help us with this ambitious initiative to take Yale Athletics to new heights.

Also in this document, you will find a donor form that will allow you to support the Ray Tompkins Associates or one of our Sport Associations for the upcoming year. By doing so, you will receive all of the benefits associated with membership, including monthly emails, copies of the Year in Review and other newsletters, and invitations to special events throughout the year. We hope you will consider making an impact on our student-athletes again this year.

Our Yale Athletics Year in Review would not be complete without expressing our deepest gratitude to all of our Association leaders and board members who volunteer their time to support Yale's current student-athletes. By raising money, organizing events, and serving as career mentors, they carry on the traditions of excellence that are quintessentially Yale.

Thank you again for all that you do for Yale Athletics. Your generosity and loyalty continue to amaze us each year. We look forward to seeing you cheering for the Bulldogs in 2008-2009.

Sincerely yours,

Thomas A. Beckett
Director of Athletics

Philosophy and Objectives

The following athletic department objectives are constantly shifting as we are always looking for ways to improve and provide all of our constituencies with a world-class experience. This most recent version is the result of a collaborative effort to make Yale athletics the best it can be. We look forward to providing you with these updates so you can see how we are in a continuous state of evaluation, utilizing the feedback of so many as the foundation of our success.

– Tom Beckett

Competitive Excellence

» Each sport program to finish first in the Ivy League.
» Prepare and maintain the athletics facilities at the highest standard of Division 1 competition; display the pride in our facilities through increased exhibition through websites and pamphlets.
» Provide the highest quality and state of the art training equipment for our athletes.
» Continue to identify and matriculate impact prospects. Yield 95% of the admitted candidates who receive athletic distinction.
» Continue the success of the Kiphuth Leadership Academy to train students and staff in the principles of leadership; provide increased nutritional and sports psychology counseling to students and staff; continue to invite guest speakers to conduct workshops on topics of interest.
» Continue to provide Ivy League championship opportunities for club sports programs.
» Review, identify and streamline the use of recruiting technology.
» Provide ongoing review and oversight of all internal and league admissions policies.

Fiscal Responsibility

» Streamline and clearly define authorization process for all fiscal transactions.
» Provide ongoing review, communication and training of all internal and university fiscal policies and procedures.
» Investigate and identify the support needs of coaching staff in processing all financial transactions.
» Continue to investigate the use of one account for team revenue and expenses that combines general appropriation and association accounts.
» Explore additional initiatives for cost-effective and collective bidding/purchasing (e.g., equipment, supplies, shuttle buses, recruiting technology, phones, use of existing discounts, per diems, purchasing vs. leasing, house rentals vs. hotel arrangements).

» Continue to identify and establish strategies for maximum obligation of equipment through sharing and full expenditure of on-hand supplies.
» Increase departmental awareness and identify areas of sustainability. Think Green.
» Departmental review of workplace efficiency relating to staffing and workflow processes.

Positive Work Environment

» Continue to provide avenues for staff involvement in all departmental goals, work environment improvements and general policies and procedures and encourage new ideas, venues for improvements.
» Continue to provide ongoing training and professional development opportunities for all staff.
» Maintain a professional and positive work environment.
bio, and interests; employee recognition; committee reports, etc).

- Establish a coach mentoring program.
- Strive to improve time management skills throughout department – less crisis management.
- Continue to provide opportunities for all staff to interact with each other (e.g., luncheons, picnics, employee/families at OEC, baseball game, tailgates, Super Bowl parties, boat races, public skating, Department Olympic Day (end of year).

Superior Customer Service

- Increase of IT staffing and support to maintain websites; recommend and implement membership system for purchase of tickets, memberships, physical education classes, expanded credit card sales, including kiosks providing the most current and up-to-date information to the Yale and New Haven Community.
- Continue to develop and expand media accessibility for varsity contests (e.g. video streaming).
- Continue to improve and maximize our first class, “first impressions” including: facility cleanliness and appearance (including offices, hallways and bathrooms); increased signage; RTH entry and reception desk and Varsity Room.
- Maximize staff identification in key customer areas (e.g., clothing, badges, nameplates).
- Professional, courteous, prompt and effective communication with all visitors, callers and fellow staff, particularly the frontline staff.
- Think/Act “Outside the Box” mentality and attitude for all staff not only to provide superior customer service to visitors and callers, but to facilitate new, fresh and novel ideas and communications between fellow co-workers and contacts throughout the University, making the process new, exciting and challenging.

Yale Tomorrow

- Continue to identify and cultivate alumni who can help support our programs as well as provide opportunities to connect them to Yale Athletics.
- Develop a program to help coaches and associations raise money for special projects/needs for their program.
- Provide coaches and staff training and education on successful fundraising techniques.
- Continue to provide awareness as to the positive role everyone has in “fund-raising” for athletics.
- Identify and cultivate younger alumni/ae and connect them to our programs.

Senior Awards

WILLIAM NEELLY MALLORY AWARD
Awarded annually to the senior man who on the field of play and in life at Yale best represents the highest ideals of American sportsmanship and Yale tradition, the 2008 winner was JOSH COX, the speedy outfielder on the Yale baseball team. Cox’s inspirational play made him the perfect choice for the award named after the Yale Class of 1924 athlete.

Cox, a unanimous 2008 first-team All-Ivy League selection, led the Ivy League with a school-record 72 hits. He also had a school-record 191 at-bats, hit a career-high .377 and belted a career-best 14 doubles. The Bulldogs’ leadoff hitter, he finished second in the league with 21 stolen bases. His 13 stolen bases in conference games were tops in the Ancient Eight. He was the only Yale player to start all 45 games, playing every game in center field for the second consecutive season.

Cox was an honorable mention 2007 All-Ivy choice. He was also recognized with a second team Academic All-District selection by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) and ESPN The Magazine.

Cox’s 109 runs, 185 hits and 62 stolen bases are all top 10 among Yale baseball career records.

NELLIE PRATT ELLIOT AWARD
The 2008 award, named in honor of Nellie Pratt Elliot, who was an assistant director of undergraduate admissions at Yale for 46 years, went to women’s lacrosse midfielder LAUREN TAYLOR, a three-time All-American who led Yale to a 43-22 mark over the last four seasons.

Taylor, who was on the watch list for the Tewaaraton Trophy as the top female collegiate lacrosse player in the country, was named second team IWLCA All-American after earning her fourth IWLCA All-Northeast Region recognition (three first team selections, one second team). She was a first team IWLCA All-American last year and a third team selection as a freshman. Taylor was a unanimous first-team All-Ivy League selection this year and is just the fourth women’s lacrosse player in league history, and second in Yale history, to be named first team All-Ivy four times. Last year she was the first Yale player to be named Ivy League Player of the Year in the award’s 27-year history. She has been a unanimous first team All-Ivy choice for three straight years.

THOMAS W. FORD ’42 STUDENT-ATHLETE COMMUNITY OUTREACH AWARD
The Ford Award is given annually to the male and female student-athletes who during the past four years have demonstrated their commitment to strengthening the relationship between Yale Athletics and the youth in the New Haven community. It is named in honor of Thomas W. Ford ’42, who endowed the Yale Department of Athletics Community Outreach Program in the fall of 1996. The 2008 winners were JENNIE HANSEN and DAVID SILBERSTEIN.

Hansen, the captain of Yale’s nationally ranked women’s crew team, has been an active member of the Yale Community Rowing program. She has helped to organize and coach the youth “Learn To Row” clinics and served as a leader on the summer staff for the program, which gives hundreds of New Haven youth the opportunity to get out on the water. Her insights as a coach and mentor during the summer of 2005 helped to create a coaching model that is still in use.
Silberstein, who helped the Yale football team to a 9-1 season last fall, founded the Reading Buddies Program at Clinton Avenue Elementary School, which brought student-athletes to read and mentor children once a week. As the leader of the Student Athlete Community Outreach Committee, he also has worked closely with Vincent Mauro Elementary School as well as with two of the department’s largest outreach efforts—Bulldog Buddies and the Holiday Gift Giving Initiative.

KIPUTH STUDENT-ATHLETE DISTINCTION AWARD

The Kiphuth Award, given to the male and female student-athletes who rank highest in scholarship and have earned two varsity letters prior to their senior year, is named in honor of DeLaney Kiphuth ’41, MA ’47. Kiphuth served as Director of Athletics from 1954 through 1976. Football player ALAN KIMBALL, cross country/track athlete JESSIE MACLEOD, and women’s swimmer KATELYN KANE were the 2008 Award winners.

Kimball, a kicker for the Bulldogs football team, has been awarded a 2007-08 NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship. He was a three-year letterwinner and led the Ivy League in 2007 with 1.40 field goals per game. Last fall he was a semifinalist for the Draddy Award as the nation’s top football scholar. MacLeod, who helped the women’s cross country team win the 2007 Brodhead Award, was a distance runner for the Bulldogs. Kane, who swam freestyle and butterfly for the Bulldogs, received three awards—the William Leeming Jelliffe Award, the MacLeish Memorial Swimming Trophy and the Robert J.H. Kiphuth Trophy—at the team’s annual post season banquet.

BRODHEAD AWARD

The Brodhead Award, for highest team GPA, is named in honor of Richard H. Brodhead ’68, Ph.D. ’72, who served as Dean of Yale College from 1993 through 2004 and was on the faculty of the department of English for over 30 years. The MEN’S TENNIS TEAM, which had four players earn All-Ivy recognition, received the award with a team GPA of 3.50.
With over 150 years of athletics at Yale we have developed a proud tradition of a broad-based program where our participants share the exhilaration that the development of athletic skill provides as well as the camaraderie that endures beyond the recollection of game statistics.

Yale Tomorrow is a historical campaign for athletics, focusing on facility renovations and program endowments, which will provide the next generation of Yale student-athletes with the resources necessary to achieve continued excellence both in the classroom and on the playing fields. This ambitious campaign requires support in three key areas:

» Continue to attract the best coaches and athletes. In a highly competitive environment, new endowments for coaching positions will give Yale the edge it needs to recruit and retain the very best.

» Renew our facilities. In the next decade we aim to enhance the breadth and quality of many of our sports venues to guarantee that our teams are performing in some of the top collegiate facilities in the nation.

» Fully support our athletic programs. New endowments will ensure access to the equipment, training, and travel funds our student-athletes need to perform at the highest level, while also ensuring that all members of the Yale community are given broad support to partake in sports and recreation at a variety of levels.

Endowment Update

On February 22, 2008 the 19th head coaching endowment at Yale was announced at the Track Association Annual Dinner at the Yale Club in New York City. The Mark T. Young ’68 Director of Cross Country and Track & Field endowment was made possible by an anonymous donor who felt Coach Young’s leadership as Head Coach at Yale was worthy of distinction. When announcing the endowment, Track Association Co-President Louisa Garry ’87 said, “Due to his efforts, athletes on the women’s team were given the same opportunities as athletes on the men’s team and proved they were capable of successfully training, competing, and excelling at the highest level in the country.” Director of Athletics Tom Beckett commented further, “The Mark T. Young ’68 Director of Cross Country and Track & Field endowment embodies the lasting influence that an outstanding teacher and coach like Mark can have on his student-athletes.”

Coach Young has served as the Head Coach at Yale for 28 years, leading his teams to six Heptagonal Championships, four ECAC Championships, and four top ten finishes at the NCAA Championships. The annual dinner was also celebrating the 1968 HEPS championship team, which Coach Young captained, so the event was especially meaningful for him.

As part of the Yale Tomorrow campaign, the Department of Athletics is seeking funding to endow all 35 of its varsity head coaching positions.
Yale Bowl: Our Flagship Project

In the fall of 2006 the restoration Phase I of the Yale Bowl was completed. The interior restoration included refurbished seating of the 64,269 capacity bowl. The concourse was widened and the portals into the field were restructured with extensive underground construction to fix any drainage problems so the new concrete will not be subject to any potential damage. Work on the exterior façade and the lower ring wall surrounding the field was completed, which included the removal of overgrowth and trees with root systems that caused damage to the exterior wall of the bowl.

With the restoration of Phase I complete, the university plans to revive the Yale Bowl with the addition of facilities and a magnificent grand entrance that will welcome Yale fans as part of Phase II of the restoration project. Former Yale football players and brothers, Jerry ’63, Brian ’60, Robert ’67, and Richard Kenney ’71 have bestowed a gift that will restore the original Yale Bowl Field Center and add additional facilities. Along with the restoration, the new Kenney Family Field Center will create additional space to host special events and other related functions. The base of the center will accommodate the entire Yale football team and game officials during pre-game and halftime meetings. The upper floor would include photos and information on the storied history of Yale football.

As a result of the gifts of Irving ’54, Colin ’57, Erik ’63 and Mark Jensen ’67, the university plans to construct the Jensen Family Plaza, which will welcome Bulldog fans to the historic athletic venue. The Plaza will be located in the main entrance at Gate D and will serve as a perfect place for fans to gather before and after games.

RE-DEDICATION OF THE YALE BOWL

A party of more than 600 alumni/ae, parents, and friends gathered in Coxe Cage November 17, 2007, to celebrate a landmark for Yale football and the Yale Tomorrow Campaign. Capping nearly two-and-one-half years of construction, the ceremony commemorated the top-to-bottom renovation of Yale Bowl, a national landmark now in its ninety-third season of gridiron action.

Yale President Richard C. Levin and Director of Athletics Thomas A. Beckett hosted the rededication event. In attendance were Charles B. Johnson ’54, Joel E. Smilow ’54, and other donors who supported the renovation, along with generations of coaches and athletes from Yale’s storied football program.

In his official dedication speech, Levin observed that the Yale-Harvard rivalry is built on a shared commitment to both athletics and academics – goals that are supported by the Athletics Tomorrow campaign across the full range of Yale’s sports programs. He expressed particular gratitude to Charles Johnson, whose contribution was matched by the Class of 1954, for funding that accelerated the timetable of the Yale Bowl restoration, and he went on to recognize other top donors present in the audience, including Harry Day ’70, the Jensen family, Edward Toohey ’54, John Embersits ’58, and the Ehikian family.

He then asked Smilow to speak as a representative of the Class of 1954, which had a special place at the ceremony as one of the chief donors to the renovation. A portion of the Class’ historic 50th reunion gift, which totaled more than $120 million, was directed toward the project, rebuilding seven portals and the playing surface within the Bowl, now named Class of 1954 Field.
Capital Projects Update

CULLMAN-HEYMAN TENNIS CENTER

The Cullman-Heyman Tennis Center, made possible through the generous leadership gifts of Samuel J. Heyman ’60 and the estate of the late Joseph Cullman 3rd ’35, will be complete this August and will be one of the finest intercollegiate tennis facilities in the nation.

The new building, featuring four new courts, is attached to the current four courts in the Cullman facility. In addition, the construction includes team locker rooms, a team room, coaches’ offices, as well as a new lobby with a dramatic stairway. The final phase of building in summer 2008 consisted of the paving of the new courts and the laying of the “US Open Blue” court surface, completion of the new lobby viewing area and baseline viewing areas on the four new courts, and the landscape architecture around the structure.

The original Cullman courts were built in 1972 through a gift from Joseph Cullman 3rd ’35 and named in honor of his father, the late Joseph Cullman, Jr., Yale College Class of 1904.

REESER STADIUM

Phase I construction of Reese Stadium, the home of soccer and lacrosse at Yale, was completed in 2007 due to the generous leadership gifts from Jason Reese ’87 and Jon Reese ’90 as well as generous contributions from other lacrosse and soccer alumni/ae. The first phase included the installation of a state-of-the-art “Field Turf” surface, the first of its kind for an Ivy League soccer program, and new lights.

In March 2008, a leadership gift from former soccer players and classmates Jamie and Cynthia Kempner ’79 as well as an anonymous $1 million challenge match from another former Eli player to the Yale Soccer Association moved forward the plans for Phase II of the Reese Stadium Project. These two commitments, as well as support from the University and other loyal donors, have enabled the development of Phase II, which includes a new entry plaza, press box, team rooms, new and expanded seats and hospitality areas.

INGALLS RINK

Phase I of the multi-million dollar renovation of Ingalls Rink is in progress, with substantial completion of the phase expected in time for hockey season this fall.

Phase I includes renovations to the existing press box on the home side of the rink, the addition of a new press box on the visitors’ side of the rink, refurbished exit doors on the south and east elevations, and the addition of lighting in the soffit that lines the ceiling along the perimeter walkway around the rink.

There will also be a new ice surface in place for the 2008-09 season. The previous rink slab has already been removed and is being replaced with a lower slab. A new entrance to the ice has been built behind the visitors’ bench, near the Yale women’s ice hockey team locker room. That locker room will eventually be the varsity visiting team locker room.
Outside the rink, work is progressing rapidly on the 14,000 square-foot underground addition underneath the parking lot on the Mansfield Street side that will house both Yale varsity hockey teams along with lockers for other teams that use the rink. The site is currently being excavated.

In Phase II, which will take place from the fall of 2008 through the spring of 2009, the interior of the underground addition will be fitted out. The men’s and women’s varsity locker rooms, a new strength and conditioning room and public locker rooms are included in this addition.

In Phase III, which will take place from the spring of 2009 through the fall of 2009, further work will be done on the interior of the main building. There will be a “hockey heritage area” inside the main entrance on the upper and lower levels. This area will showcase Yale’s hockey history, dating back to the first intercollegiate hockey game in America – Yale vs. Johns Hopkins in 1896. The lower level renovations will also include new bathrooms, a concessions area and a renovated Schley Room for receptions.

All of the renovations are designed to preserve Ingalls’ distinctive architecture and charm while adding substantial capacity for all who use the facility. Named after former Yale men’s ice hockey captains David S. Ingalls ’20 and David S. Ingalls Jr. ’36, the rink was designed by famed architect Eero Saarinen ’34 and built in 1959. Gifts from the Ingalls family provided the bulk of the funding for its construction.

DAVID PATERSON GOLF TECHNOLOGY CENTER

The David Paterson Golf Technology Center was officially dedicated on May 3, 2008, and is named for recently retired Head Golf Coach of 33 years, David Paterson. The Center is a state-of-the-art indoor golf area located on the 2nd floor of the historic Payne Whitney Gymnasium. It features the latest technology and equipment to enhance the quality of training and the performance of the men’s and women’s teams.

Highlights of the Center include four hitting banks and a 630 square foot professional putting green with 100 square feet of surrounding fringe. In addition, the complimentary technology includes a putt training system which provides real time feedback based on 28 parameters of a putting stroke, a K Vest which measures the path of the hips, shoulders and arms through the swing, and video swing analysis software.

The Center was made possible by the incredible leadership of Harry L. You MA ’83 and generosity of John B. Beinecke ’69, William S. Beinecke ’36, Michael L. Friedman ’55, James C. Israel ’90, and James A. Warner ’81.
Sports and Recreation Update

PHILOSOPHY

The Department of Athletics recognizes that athletics at all levels is a vital part of the educational mission at Yale. Therefore, the staff is committed to providing opportunities at all levels for the entire Yale community. The specific purposes of the club sports and recreational activities at Yale are to fill the need for uniquely structured sport activities that may be competitive, recreational, or instructional in nature and to provide a learning experience through student involvement in fund raising, organization, administration, budgeting, leadership, and scheduling, in addition to athletic skill in a favorite sport.

» Total adult enrollment in the 2007-2008 year was 2,631 and total children’s enrollment was 534.

YALE ATHLETIC MARKETING 2007-2008

The 2007-2008 Yale Athletic season was not only a success on the fields, courts and arenas, but also in the stands. Hundreds of thousands of alumni/ae, students and local fans attended Yale athletic events in the past year and their support made Yale one of the most watched athletic programs in the country.

» The Yale Football Hospitality Village successfully brought tailgating to another level making Yale one of the premier pre-game events in the country.
» Average attendance at Yale Football games ranked 3rd in FCS Division 1 and 1st in the Ivy League (22,793)
» Attendance at “The Game” totaled 57,248 fans, the 3rd highest attended game of the year in FCS Division 1 Football
» The Yale Volleyball Classic drew 2,000 supporters and involved top ranked national teams Stanford and Penn State
» Yale’s Track & Field Teams hosted the Ivy League Heptagonal Championships and attracted a record number of supporters to the event
» Yale Hockey attendance averaged 3,000 plus fans per event at Ingalls Rink

In addition, in 2007-2008 Yale Athletics expanded its viewing opportunities for those who could not make it back to New Haven for a game or match.

» 69 events were streamed live via web video and accessed by over 5,000 people.
» 2007-2008 marked the launch of video netcasts, with seven interviews done in the spring featuring a variety of Yale coaches and student-athletes. It was also the second year doing audio netcasts on iTunes U.
» Yale is one of the only schools in the country to offer all of its on-line video for free (not pay-per-view).
» Nine different sports had events featured on-line, including every home game for men’s basketball, women’s basketball, men’s ice hockey, women’s ice hockey and volleyball.
2007–2008 Special Events Highlights

YALE FIELD HOCKEY CELEBRATES 35 YEARS

Starting with a thrilling 2-1 victory over Harvard in double-overtime, the Yale field hockey team celebrated its 35th anniversary in style during the weekend of October 13, 2007. The festivities included an alumnae game and a reception/dinner at which the establishment of the Yale field hockey endowment was announced.

The dinner, which took place in the Berkeley College Dining Hall, began with master of ceremonies Anne Lehman Dillman ’93 introducing Director of Athletics Tom Beckett. Beckett presented Lawrie Mifflin ’73 and Susan Morse ’74 with the photo showing both of them on the Yale fence as co-captains of the 1972 team – the only time a Yale team has ever had co-captains.

Mifflin, Senior Editor at The New York Times, then spoke about her memories of helping to start the field hockey program. She acknowledged Jane Curtis ’72, whom she met at a reception at the Philadelphia Yale Club prior to arriving on campus as a freshman, and recalled putting up flyers in Vanderbilt Hall (where all the freshmen lived) trying to organize a team.

After dinner Dillman, the president of the Yale Field Hockey Association, spoke of the association’s role in the development of the program. She commended head coach Pam Stuper for her work since joining the team as an assistant coach in 1997.

Stuper then spoke, thanking all of the athletic department staff members and others who assisted with the 35th anniversary celebration and have helped the program in other ways throughout the years. She also recognized Amanda Walton ’02 for her tremendous dedication and loyalty.

Current Captain Harriet Thayer ’08 and Carol Roberts ’81 were also a part of the speaking program. Thayer spoke on behalf of her team and expressed her appreciation to all of the alumnae. Roberts spoke about what it means to play for Yale. Many of the remarks reflected that while times have changed, the experience of representing Yale on the field hockey field has not.

The culmination of the evening included the endowment committee’s announcement of the creation of a field hockey endowment. This committee included Chrissy Hall ’05, Anne Keating ’77 and Heather Kirby ’81. The program is already nearly three-quarters of the way towards its goal of $350,000.

BLUE LEADERSHIP BALL

On Friday, November 16, 2007, the Yale Athletic Department hosted the fourth Blue Leadership Ball and honored the recipients of the 2007 George H. W. Bush ’48 Lifetime of Leadership Awards at the William K. Lanman Center inside Payne Whitney Gymnasium.

The Blue Leadership Ball is a biannual event that recognizes Yale University alumni/ae athletes who have made significant contributions in the fields of government, business, science and technology, education, public service, law and the arts and media. The Award has been named in honor of George Herbert Walker Bush, the 41st President of the United States and former Yale Baseball Captain from the Class of 1948. This extravagant event brought over 600 alumni/ae, friends and stu-

The 2007 honorees all distinguished themselves on the fields and courts at Yale, and afterwards, but in quite distinct ways. Cooley won varsity letters in football, squash and tennis before leaving Yale in 1943 to serve in World War II. He later went on to distinguish himself in the banking industry, rising to CEO of the San Francisco-based Wells Fargo Bank in 1978. After retiring in 1982, he was elected president, chairman, and CEO of Seafirst Bank in Seattle, a position he held until 1990. After his football playing days at Yale, Johnson went on to a successful career in the investment industry. He served as the CEO of Franklin resources from 1969 until 2003, and remains chairman of Franklin Resources and various Franklin Templeton funds.

Keating enjoyed a prolific athletic career, both at Yale and after graduation. She earned nine varsity letters in field hockey, basketball, and lacrosse, and was later a member of both the U.S. field hockey team and the U.S. lacrosse team. Keating went on to various banking positions, including banker at Brown Brothers Harriman & Co, and is currently the managing director and senior client partner at Korn/Ferry International.

McNerney, who played baseball and ice hockey at Yale, has enjoyed a prolific career after receiving his MBA from Harvard in 1975. After working at Procter & Gamble and General Electric he joined 3M, a global technology company as chairman of the board and CEO. In 2005 he joined the Boeing Company, the world largest manufacturer of commercial jetliners and military aircraft as Chairman of the Board, President and CEO. Schmoke, a lacrosse and football star at Yale has held many prominent positions in the field of law, politics and education. After working as assistant director of President Carter’s White House domestic policy staff, he went on to serve as the State’s Attorney in Baltimore before being elected mayor in 1987. Schmoke currently serves as the dean of the Howard University School of Law.

The final honoree of the night came as a surprise to the crowd, and even more surprised the honoree himself, Yale Director of Athletics, Tom Beckett. Beckett was given a George H.W. Bush Lifetime of Leadership Award from the Blue Leadership Ball Honors Committee to recognize him for his outstanding contributions and leadership for Yale Athletics over the last 13 years.

YALE WOMEN’S LACROSSE HONORS ITS ATHLETES FROM THE 1970S

On February 13, 2008, the Yale Women’s Lacrosse Association held their annual dinner at the Yale Club in NY and honored some very special people – the pioneers of the program. Elly McKenna, class of 1978 and parent to former Yale lacrosse player Lisa McKenna ’07, spoke on behalf of her teammates. Her inspirational remarks, complemented by photographs from the University Archives, told about the formation of the varsity program that set the stage for an incredible tradition of excellence. Other players from the 70’s in attendance were Anne Keating ’77, Laura Childs Saverin ’76, Emily Burdis ’78, Sally Walsh ’79 and Tracy Ball Greer ’81. Daphne Benas, Athletic Trainer, was also recognized for her service to the Yale women’s lacrosse program since its inception.
MEN’S ICE HOCKEY HONORS ITS NCAA TOURNAMENT TEAMS

On February 16, 2008 the Yale Hockey Association honored the 1952 and 1998 teams during the alumni weekend celebration. These are the two teams that represented Yale in the NCAA tournament. The weekend featured an alumni game, reception, and a dinner in the Schley Room at Ingalls Rink. Harry Havemeyer, the captain of the ’52 team, spoke during the dinner about famed coach Murray Murdoch. Over 100 people were in attendance for the festivities, and thousands of fans honored the two teams on the ice during intermission of the current team’s game against Clarkson.

YALE SWIMMING AND DIVING CELEBRATES 110 YEARS

On April 11, 2008 125 alumni/ae, parents, and friends gathered with the current team to celebrate 110 years of Yale Swimming & Diving at the Yale Club in New York City. A wide range of speakers shared their thoughts about the program and entertained the large crowd. John Lapides ’72 served as the Master of Ceremonies, while Bonnie Jackson Kestner ’74, Paul Katz ’71, Steve Clark ’65 and Ed Bettendorf ’70 shared their thoughts about the Yale swimming and diving experience.
1989 IVY WOMEN’S TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP
TEAM HONORED IN NEW YORK

The eighth annual Yale Tennis Association dinner was incredibly special this year. The 1989 Ivy Women’s Tennis Championship team was honored and 120 alumni/ae, parents and friends were there with the current teams to celebrate their accomplishment. What made this evening even more spectacular was the current women’s squad, the 2008 Ivy Champs and first Yale team to win that distinction since the 1989 team, was there to share in the glory.

2008 VARSITY DINNER

Every year the Yale Department of Athletics honors the student-athletes from the graduating class with the Varsity Dinner in Commons Dining Hall. The dinner program features remarks from Director of Athletics, Tom Beckett, two student-athletes, a distinguished alumnus/a, and a coach. This year, David Silberstein from football and Lindsay Dashiel from women’s tennis were selected as the student speakers and Zack Leonard ’89 provided the toast on behalf of the coaching staff.

Meghan McMahon ’87 was the keynote alumnae speaker and provided some very insightful remarks for the graduating student-athletes. With Meghan’s permission, we have reprinted parts of her speech because it made such a lasting impression on those who heard it.

Hi, and congratulations to all you 2008 Yale jocks. This is supposed to be a toast to you, and it will be, but before I begin that … I want to give YOU an opportunity to make a toast, and if you’ll allow me, I will serve as your spokesperson.

There are some people in this room who have thought about you a lot over these last four years. They have sat at their desks for hours and devised plans to make you stronger and fitter and faster. They have chased you around fields and tracks, courts and courses and rinks, encouraging you to push yourselves, probably beyond what you ever thought you could do. … Tonight, they probably sit beside you — the adults who — other than your parents — are the proudest of what you have accomplished in your time at Yale. Won’t you all please raise a glass with me and toast your Yale coaches? …
Last month, Yale Women’s squash player Miranda Ranieri, class of ’08, found herself down 5-0 in the fourth game of the National College Championship match. She could have thrown in the towel. After all, second in the nation is pretty darn good. Instead, she threw back her shoulders, and won nine of the next ten points to clinch the match and the national title. She explained her resolve this way: “I thought, ‘This is my last chance to win this. It’s time to step up. I was nervous, but I didn’t want to let anyone down—not my family, not my coach, and not Yale.’”

She didn’t want to let down her coach, or her family—okay—but “not Yale?” What does that mean? What does she owe Yale, anyway? What do any of us owe Yale, for that matter? We came here, we worked hard in our classes and on our teams. We sacrificed tremendously to be Yale athletes. We felt, at times, that we had given Yale our very hearts. So, what has Yale given us? …

But Yale had given me, as it has bestowed upon each of you, many invaluable gifts. You will never walk into a room and feel outmatched intellectually, because at Yale, you have sat with greatest minds in the world and not only listened, but held your own. You have been exposed to cultures and ideas and possibilities you never would have encountered anyplace else. You have competed, and persevered, and succeeded, at the very highest levels of collegiate athletics. You have met, befriended, and become, the future leaders of your generation. …

You will make fine friends in your lives in the grown-up world. You will have brilliant graduate school classmates, fabulous new neighbors, savvy business associates, lovers and partners and husbands and wives.

But the friends you have made here: the hushed late-night conversations in common rooms, the debates in chilly courtyards as leaves fell around you, the extended dinners in the dining hall, when the discussion flowed seamlessly from YouTube to going green to Thursday night’s plans to Ian Shapiro’s lecture, the yelling over loud music and the whispering as others slept, the banter and the repartee, the laughing until your sides ached, the confidences kept and the trust earned. You get that stuff just once—you have a shot at those kinds of connections only here …

So, I close by saying thank you, Yale varsity athletes of 2008. Yes, you have made your coaches and families proud—and you have made Yale very, very proud, indeed.

This year’s 12th Annual Yale Golf Classic was an incredible success as 150 golfers took to the Course at Yale and Yale Athletics had the opportunity to recognize a close friend and colleague, Molly Meyer, Assistant Clinical Professor of Nursing and Nurse Practitioner, University Health Services. For many years Molly has served as a caretaker for a plethora of Yale’s student-athletes, ensuring their health and wellbeing, while understanding their intense desire to get back on the field of play. In his remarks honoring Molly, Director of Athletics, Tom Beckett announced the creation of the Molly Meyer Award, which will be presented annually at the Senior Varsity Dinner beginning in 2009. This award will be presented to a graduating senior who during their time at Yale has in some way shaped their team through their own humanitarian spirit.
New Faces in the Athletic Department

NEW ADMINISTRATORS

ALISON E. COLE ’99
Assistant Athletic Director, Development & Outreach
Alison Cole ’99, the captain of the Yale women’s lacrosse team in 1999, has returned to Yale as Assistant Athletic Director for Development and Outreach. Cole will be responsible for fund raising, including work on the Yale Tomorrow Athletic Campaign, and special events for Yale’s 35 varsity programs. She will also direct Yale’s Thomas W. Ford ’42 Community Outreach Program and will coordinate the annual National Youth Sports Program, which involves over 300 inner-city children using Yale’s athletic facilities over the summer.

SHOSHANNA ENGEL ’03
Assistant Athletic Director for Compliance
Shoshanna Engel ’03, the captain of 2002-03 gymnastics team, has returned to Yale as an assistant athletic director for compliance. Engel’s responsibilities include the day-to-day functions of compliance issues such as eligibility, rules education and official visits. In addition, she will assist in all student-athlete welfare and leadership programs.

NATALIE GONZALEZ
Assistant Athletic Director, Varsity Sports Administration
Natalie Gonzalez comes to Yale from the University of Florida where she coordinated game management and travel for the football program. At Ray Tompkins House she will be responsible for providing a wide range of services for the daily internal operations of 35 intercollegiate sport programs including varsity team meals, lodging and travel services, scheduling and budgeting, contest management, and recess housing and meals.

JEREMY MAKINS
Director of Ticket Operations
Jeremy Makins comes to Yale from the University of Illinois at Chicago and his responsibilities will include overseeing all ticket operations for the department. Within the broad scope of ticket operations, Jeremy’s daily activities will be providing superior customer service to all fans that enter a Yale athletic event, supervising box office and game-day staff for all home ticketed events, and ensuring compliance with all relevant NCAA and Ivy League rules and regulations relating to ticket operations.

NEW HEAD COACHES

ANNE PHILLIPS

Anne Phillips, who led Franklin & Marshall to an NCAA Championship and was the IWLCA Division III National Coach of the Year in 2007, was named Yale’s Joel E. Smilow, Class of 1954 Head Coach of Women’s Lacrosse.

Phillips posted a 93-24 record (.795) in her six seasons at F&M, making her the school’s all-time leader in both wins and winning percentage. That winning percentage put her third among active Division III head coaches at the end of last season. Phillips also coached 18 individual IWLCA All-Americans and six of F&M’s top 10 all-time leading scorers in her tenure.

The Diplomats were ranked in the top 10 nationally in each of Phillips’ years, but in 2007 they reached new heights. The team achieved No. 1 in the rankings for the first time, winning its first Centennial Conference Championship in 14 years. The Diplomats finished off an undefeated season – 21-0 – with a win over Salisbury in the NCAA Division III Championship.

Phillips is chairman of the US Lacrosse National Team Selection Committee and was a US Lacrosse National Team selector in 2007. She has been a member of the National All-American Selection Committee since 2003 and has been a member of the United States Lacrosse Coaches Council since 2006.

COLIN SHEEHAN ’97
Head Men’s Golf Coach

Colin Sheehan ’97, who was a member of the Bulldogs’ 1996 and 1997 Ivy League championship teams, has been named head coach of the Yale men’s golf team. Sheehan spent the last year as an assistant coach for both the Yale men’s and women’s teams. He replaces his collegiate head coach Dave Paterson, who retired after 33 years.

At Yale, Sheehan assisted Paterson and women’s head coach Chawwadee Rompothong ’00 with all aspects of the program, including player development, recruiting and management of tournaments. The men’s team won the 2008 New England championship and finished second at the Ivy League Tournament.

Sheehan is a devoted student of the game, who has been a golf writer and architectural critic. He has served as an editor for The Golfer, a leading lifestyle magazine with an international audience, and has traveled to many of the top courses in the world, including Royal Melbourne in Australia and Royal County Down in Northern Ireland.

Sheehan also authored the first history of the U.S. Amateur golf championship, which was published by the The Classics of Golf in 2006. In addition, he worked on the planning, construction and design of Castle Stuart Golf Links in the Scottish Highlands in 2006.
END OF AN ERA: DAVID PATERSON
STEPS DOWN AS LONGTIME COACH OF YALE GOLF

A legendary era in Yale golf came to an end with the retirement of Dave Paterson, who coached the men’s team for 33 years and also directed the Course at Yale for 25 of those.

The Course at Yale and the golf teams have seen many changes since 1975, the year Paterson came to Yale. In terms of stature, both have steadily risen like the climb up to the 10th green on the world famous course tucked away in the Westville section of New Haven. Much of that can be attributed to the military-like management style of the Scotsman and former member of the Royal Air Force.

Paterson’s first and only collegiate coaching job began in 1976 with the Eli men and has included eight Ivy League titles, 10 teams that qualified for the NCAA championships and many grateful student-athletes. He also coached the Yale women’s team for 13 years (1981-1993), combining it with the men’s job and the golf director’s duties. Three of his protégés, Peter Teravainen ’78, Bob Heintz ’92 and Heather Daly Donofrio ’91, have gone on to professional golf careers that continue today.

More than 50 of his former players and 200 people total gathered on a May weekend to celebrate his legacy and the dedication of the David Paterson Golf Technology Center in the Payne Whitney Gym.

The dedication of the tech center included a well-attended reception in the facility replete with a ribbon-cutting ceremony and speeches in the Kilphuth Trophy Room. Most of those attending walked over to the Yale Law School for a dinner that featured traditional Scottish fare and a bagpipe band that was hosted by the Yale Golf Association.

The Yale Golf Association also organized a fundraising golf event that May weekend and Paterson played among many of his former student-athletes on a very coastal Scottish-like spring day. To celebrate the Glasgow native’s impact on the Yale course, a fully outfitted bagpipe brigade marched on the 18th hole as the Yale coach came over the hill to locate his ball (Paterson arrived for the tech center dedication that evening wearing a kilt of his own).

His service as director of golf lasted for 25 years (1975-2000) before Paterson decided it was time to focus on coaching and teaching the game that took over his life. He has since worked exclusively with the Yale men’s team and other fortunate golf pupils at Yale for the last eight years.
The Yale Department of Athletics would like to thank the following people who retired in 2007-2008 for their dedication and service to Yale. We wish them the best of luck in their new endeavors and will miss them all greatly.

MacLaren Named NCAA Inspiration Award Winner

The NCAA Honors Committee chose James MacLaren ’85 as the 2008 Inspiration Award winner. The award is presented to a current or former coach, administrator or varsity letter-winner who, when confronted with a life-altering situation used perseverance and determination to overcome the event and now serves as a role model to give hope to others in similar situations.

Two years ago, MacLaren established a philanthropic organization with a mission of impacting those in need through inspiration, compassion and accessibility, and providing children, adults and families with the tools to help them engage life at every level. He named it Choose Living. Weeks after graduating from Yale, MacLaren, a football and lacrosse standout and a theatre studies major, was leaving a rehearsal in New York when his motorcycle was broadsided by a bus.

Initially diagnosed as dead on arrival at the hospital, MacLaren was comatose, but stabilized, after 18 hours of surgery. Doctors also amputated his left leg below the knee.

MacLaren awakened from the coma determined to rehabilitate his body. Eventually, he resumed his athletics pursuits as a tri-athlete. MacLaren went on to become the amputee world record holder in the Boston, Los Angeles and Hamburg Marathons and in the Ironman competition in Hawaii.

However, MacLaren’s life took another turn on June 6, 1993, when he collided with a van in the bike leg of a triathlon in California. The impact hurled him into a signpost and he broke his neck. The accident left him paralyzed from the neck down and in a wheelchair.

The road to recovery was far tougher this time. But MacLaren has once again battled back to reclaim some motor function of his limbs even though doctors said he would not regain movement below his neck.

MacLaren currently is a motivational speaker and has started a doctorate in mythology and depth psychology. His foundation supports multiple organizations including the Challenged Athletes Foundation; Camp Good Days and Special Times, the nation’s largest cancer camp for children; and efforts to assist disabled people in Ghana and around the world.

MacLaren is the second NCAA Inspiration Award Winner from Yale in the past five years. Amanda Walton ’02 received the award in 2003.
Community Involvement

THOMAS W. FORD COMMUNITY OUTREACH PROGRAM STILL GROWING

The Thomas W. Ford Community Outreach Program was established in 1996 to bring Yale Athletics and Yale student-athletes into the New Haven community. The program is funded by an endowment and allows Yale to provide opportunities for New Haven youth that many other Universities throughout the country have had to cut due to budget restrictions. The Ford Outreach program supports a number of clinics and sporting events throughout the year, with one of the highlights being Youth Day in the fall, where local children come to the Yale Bowl for a barbeque and free access to a football game.

In addition to the annual programs described above, the Ford Outreach endowment also supports programs that the student-athletes choose each year. In 2007-2008, Yale’s teams sponsored a holiday toy drive for local children and continued the Bulldog Buddies reading program which matches Yale student-athletes with boys and girls from New Haven’s Vincent Mauro Elementary School. Mentors visit Vincent Mauro School at least once a week to play games, help with homework and read books.

NYSP AT YALE

The National Youth Sports Program (NYSP) at Yale University has created positive opportunities for New Haven Youth for the past thirteen years and helps connect the Yale and New Haven communities. This summer 300 participants came to campus everyday for a five week program that incorporated sports activities and educational classes. Free transportation, breakfast and lunch are also provided each day to the campers. NYSP is held in the historic Payne-Whitney Gymnasium Monday through Thursday, and across from the decorated Yale Bowl every Friday for a field day and barbeque. The 2008 highlights were the NYSP Talent and Fashion Show that had dozens of camper participants, as well as the end of the year carnival that featured many games along with a dunk tank, inflatable obstacle course, and giant slip n’ slide.

THINK PINK AT YALE

The month of February marked the kickoff of nationwide awareness for Breast Cancer and many of Yale’s teams supported the cause by hosting auctions and sporting pink jerseys. The women’s basketball team’s affiliation with Think Pink is especially meaningful at a time when the Smilow Cancer Center at Yale-New Haven hospital is being constructed just a few blocks from Payne Whitney Gym, as Joel Smilow ’54 established the coaching endowment for women’s basketball and most recently has turned his philanthropic attention to cancer research.
The women’s basketball team help raise awareness by participating in “Think Pink” an initiative created by the Women’s Basketball Coaches Association. The Bulldogs supported the endeavor by raising money for the Smilow Cancer Center’s breast cancer research through the sale of tee-shirts and other merchandise. They also encouraged fans to wear pink to their home game on February 16th, where they defeated Ivy rival Penn. Pink water bottles were tossed into the crowd and doctors were on hand at a table near the game to answer questions about symptoms, screening, and treatment for breast cancer.

At Ingalls Rink, the women’s ice hockey team showed solidarity for those suffering from the disease by participating in “Pink at the Rink,” a branded partnership between the ECAC and the American Cancer Society. All ECAC Conference teams, including the Bulldogs, wore specially designed pink jerseys when they played at home during the weekends of February 8th and February 15th. All of the jerseys were auctioned off on eBay following the match-ups.

COMMUNITY ROWING PROGRAM CELEBRATES 10 YEARS

The Community Rowing program at Yale began 10 years ago through an endowment established by the Gilder Family. Since then, over 1,000 youth from the Valley and New Haven areas have been introduced to the sport through the guidance of Jamie Snider, an assistant crew coach and director of the program. The Yale Community Rowing program has countless benefits for individual participants, providing opportunities for personal growth that extend far beyond the banks of the river. All lessons require participants to develop mental and physical discipline as they listen to coaches explain the rowing technique before practicing it themselves. Participants are shown videotape of themselves rowing so that they can continue to improve. This process of hard work and improvement, as demonstrated by actual videotape, allows the children to experience the sense of accomplishment that comes with gradual progress toward a goal.

SQUASH HAVEN

Squash Haven is a year-round after-school enrichment program for New Haven youth. Its mission is to promote academic, athletic, and personal growth through a program of squash instruction, individual academic support/tutoring, health and fitness instruction, and community service. Twenty-eight fifth and sixth grade students from John Martinez and Edgewood Magnet Schools come to Yale’s Payne Whitney Gym a total of five to six days a week throughout the year. Three hour weekday practice sessions include squash instruction with the Yale teams, fitness, homework help, and academic enrichment. Team members also participate in ten hours of community service throughout the year, compete in squash matches and tournaments, and participate in additional community and cultural events.

Squash Haven is a member of the National Urban Squash and Education Association, joining like-minded programs in Boston, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, and elsewhere. As a member, Squash Haven is subject to rigorous programmatic standards and attends the annual national urban squash tournaments, which were held this year in Philadelphia and Williamstown, Mass. Squash Haven will add ten new 5th grade team members in the fall of 2008 while continuing to service existing team members.

Yale Sport Associations

Each of Yale’s 35 varsity teams is supported by its respective sport association. Associations consist of former athletes, alumni/ae, parents, and friends who feel passionate about a specific team at Yale. The Department of Athletics encourages any fan who is interested in contributing or getting more involved with our athletic teams to become an association member. Membership is not limited to just one association.

The mission of the Yale Sport Associations is to provide alumni/ae and friends of Yale athletics with information about their favorite teams as well as creating a support network for the current student-athletes. Through the offering of career networking and job placement, hosting of special events including receptions, alumni/ae games, golf outings, and the raising of money, Associations enhance the experience of all those affiliated with Yale athletics.

RAY TOMPKINS ASSOCIATES

The Ray Tompkins Associates (RTA) allows Yale’s student-athletes and coaches to achieve greatness in the competitive landscape of Ivy League athletics. The RTA was developed to provide unrestricted, annual-use funds utilized at the discretion of the Director of Athletics toward the highest priorities of the department, particularly those that require financial resources above and beyond those allocated by the University. Individuals can be members of both Yale Sport Associations and the Ray Tompkins Associates.

Members of the RTA and Sport Associations form a special team of Yale’s faithful that make them integral to the success of all of our teams. Their support fosters a tradition of excellence that guarantees the current and future generations of Yale athletes are ensured an unparalleled athletic experience.

BENEFITS OF RTA OR YALE SPORT ASSOCIATION TEAM MEMBERSHIP:

As a member of the Ray Tompkins Associates or a Yale sport association, you will receive …

» Monthly e-mails that include highlights of Yale’s intercollegiate and recreational programs as well as feature stories on current and former Yale student athletes.

» Recognition in an annual report of donors.

» Invitations to special receptions hosted by the Department of Athletics for members of the Ray Tompkins Associates or Yale sport association.

» Know that by joining Yale’s proud team of supporters, your contributions are giving Yale student athletes unlimited opportunities to succeed – not only in athletics but in life. The Yale Athletics Department appreciates the generous support of its alumni/ae and friends whose gifts continue to benefit all of Yale’s 35 varsity sport programs.

» You may designate your gift to the Ray Tompkins Associates that will be directed toward the highest priorities of the Department.

» You may also designate your gift to one of our sport associations if you would like to support the annual needs of your favorite program.

For more information on supporting Yale Athletics, please call (203) 432-1434 or visit our web site at yalebulldogs.com.
