The formation of the University Athletic Association (UAA) is a bold state-ment of what college athletics can and should be—that it is highly desirable and possible for a group of committed institutions to conduct a broad-based program of intercollegiate athletics for men and women; to compete with like academic institutions spread over geographically expansive areas; and to seek excellence in athletics while maintaining a perspective that holds the student-athlete and the academic mission of the institution as the center of focus.

The University Athletic Association, which is in its 30th year, is a significant expression of the principle that the provision of a high-quality college athletic experience is worth the commitment required of an institution. It is worthwhile not only because it benefits the entire campus community and, in turn, the institution itself.

Perhaps more importantly, the UAA is a strong statement that the success of intercollegiate athletics is wholly dependent upon institutional integrity and the ability of institutions to complete the full integration of athletics into the academic fiber of higher education.

Members of the UAA share the belief that academic excellence and athletic excellence are not mutually exclusive. Implicit in this belief are several sets of assumptions. The first is that the academic enterprise is the primary element. Student-athletes are just that—students first and athletes second. The second set of assumptions has to do with athletic excellence. Athletic excel-lence is not to be confused with a win-at-all costs attitude. It properly relates to the caliber of experience offered to students who participate in intercollegiate athletics.

UAA institutions have captured 42 NCAA national team championships since the league’s inception in 1987-88—19 (10 volleyball, five women’s basketball, two men’s basketball, one men’s tennis, one women’s cross county) by Washington University.

Carnegie Mellon University, Case Western Reserve University, University of Chicago and Washington University in St. Louis, the only four football-playing institutions in the UAA, will compete for the 2016 pigskin championship in the 2016 season.

The University Athletic Association (UAA) sponsors competition in 22 sports—12 for men and 10 for women. Competition is in several forms. Among these are round-robin play, round-robin tournaments, round-robin tournaments followed by a single elimination round, and championship meets or tournaments.

To the victor go the spoils. And in the case of a yearly match between Washington University in St. Louis and the University of Chicago, the spoils include braggin’ rights and the Founders Cup.

The Founders Cup, which commemorates the first football game played between two University Athletic Association (UAA) schools, was introduced in 1987 when the Bears and Maroons played the first football game in the Association’s initial year of existence.

The rivalry between the two schools is a natural. Led by the St. Louis Cardinals-Chicago Cubs baseball rivalry and the St. Louis Blues-Chicago Blackhawks hockey rivalry, St. Louis and Chicago continually boast about braggin’ rights. And there’s no difference with Washington University and the University of Chicago.

Since the rivalry was re-established in 1983, the Bears lead the series 21-11. Eleven of those games have been decided by seven points or less, including the 2000 and 2001 games that were decided in the closing moments.

Since the inception of the Founders Cup in 1987, the Bears have won 22 of the 30 meetings.

Washington University celebrates after a 37-23 victory over the University of Chicago in the 2015 Founders Cup Game in St. Louis. WashU has won 22 of the 30 Founders Cup Games.
