The formation of the University Athletic Association (UAA) is a bold statement of what college athletics can and should be—that it is highly desirable and possible for a group of committed institutions to conduct a broad-based program of intercollegiate athletics for men and women; to compete with like academic institutions spread over geographically expansive areas; and to seek excellence in athletics while maintaining a perspective that holds the student-athlete and the academic mission of the institution as the center of focus.

The University Athletic Association, which is in its 31st year, is a significant expression of the principle that the provision of a high-quality college athletic experience is worth the commitment required of an institution. It is worthwhile not only because it benefits the entire campus community and, in turn, the institution itself.

Perhaps more importantly, the UAA is a strong statement that the success of intercollegiate athletics is wholly dependent upon institutional integrity and the ability of institutions to complete the full integration of athletics into the academic fiber of higher education.

Members of the UAA share the belief that academic excellence and athletic excellence are not mutually exclusive. Implicit in this belief are several sets of assumptions. The first is that the academic enterprise is the primary element. Student-athletes are just that—students first and athletes second.

The second set of assumptions has to do with athletic excellence. Athletic excellence is not to be confused with a win-at-all costs attitude. It properly relates to the caliber of experience offered to students who participate in intercollegiate athletics.

UAA institutions have captured 50 NCAA national team championships since the league’s inception in 1987-88—19 (10 volleyball, five women’s basketball, two men’s basketball, one men’s tennis, one women’s cross county) by Washington University.

Brandeis University, Carnegie Mellon University, Case Western Reserve University, University of Chicago, Emory University, New York University, University of Rochester and Washington University compete for the men’s tennis championship.

The University Athletic Association (UAA) sponsors competition in 22 sports—12 for men and 10 for women. Competition is in several forms. Among these are round-robin play, round-robin tournaments, round-robin tournaments followed by a single elimination round, and championship meets or tournaments.

The Washington University in St. Louis men’s tennis team captured its first NCAA Division III National Championship with a 5-3 victory over Emory University on May 15, 2008, at the Wallach Tennis Center in Lewiston, Maine.

Sophomore Danny Levy clinched the match for the Bears with a 4-6, 6-4, 7-5 come-from-behind victory over David Caplan at No. 3 singles.

“I got down a break in the second set and continued to battle back,” said Levy, who upped his career record to 43-9. “It was so incredible, and my teammates were cheering loud, which helped me out. Everyone on the team jumped the fence and swarmed me. It was a great feeling.”

The team of juniors Charlie Cutler and Chris Hoeland fell behind to Michael Goodwin and Caplan, 4-0, at No. 1 doubles. Cutler and Hoeland answered back with four breaks of serve and four holds to post an 8-4 win. The victory was the 25th of the year for the duo.

“It was not the start we were looking for in doubles,” said Hoeland. “We finally started returning well and got a couple breaks and the momentum.”

The Bears (21-4) made it 2-0 as junior Nirmal Choradia and sophomore John Watts defeated Mark Boren and Hardy Ehlers at No. 2 doubles, 8-4. Choradia and Watts were 4-0 after being paired up on May 4 in the third round of the NCAA Tournament.

Emory captured its lone point in doubles as Oliver Lopp and Michael Kaufman posted an 8-5 win over the freshman tandem of Isaac Stein and Max Woods at No. 3. The loss for Stein and Woods dropped them to 9-2 last season, and snapped their four-match winning streak.

Stein pushed Washington U.’s advantage to 3-1 with a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Colin Egan at No. 6 singles. The victory for Stein was his 13th-straight, improving his record to 16-2. The Eagles trimmed WU’s advantage to 3-2 as Oliver Lopp posted a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Woods at No. 4 singles.

Goodwin, ranked 20th in singles, evened the match with a 6-4, 6-3 upset victory at No. 1 over Watts, the top-ranked player in Division III. Goodwin also defeated Watts, 3-6, 7-6, 6-4 at the UAA Championship on April 27 in Atlanta, Ga.

Hoeland pushed Washington U.’s lead to 4-3 with a 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 come-from-behind victory over Ehlers. The win for Hoeland was his 11th-straight, and improved his overall record to 19-6.

“That was a great match between two good teams,” said seventh-year head coach Roger Follmer, who is 113-40 (.739) in seven seasons on the Danforth Campus. “It was a great win for our program. We have come a long way and to be a part of history is great. The whole team should feel good about the accomplishment.”

Emory, the 2003 and 2006 team national champion, ended the season with a 19-7 overall record. The national championship was the third for Washington University in the 2007-08 school year (volleyball, men’s basketball).
