Little Three Champs
Wesleyan Baseball has the fortune of playing on the oldest baseball field still in use today. Since 1874, the Cardinals have played on Andrus Field, which is tucked into the middle of campus, symbolizing its importance in the school community. The central location helps the Cardinals routinely draw more fans per game than every other team in the Northeast.

- Home of Wesleyan Baseball since 1874
- Batting Cage/Double Bullpen Mounds
- Windscreen Outfield Fence

“You will be playing on a field that has seen, among others, two National Football League coaches, Major League Baseball players, Gold Medal-winning Olympic athletes and two Presidents of the United States.”

JOHN BIDDICOMBE
WESLEYAN ATHLETIC DIRECTOR - 1988-2012

Field House
- Indoor Batting Cage - Accessible at all times
- Portable Pitching Mounds

The Wesleyan Baseball Experience

The Wesleyan University baseball program combines these elements with an elite academic education, forging an exciting, high-level baseball experience.

Featuring a comprehensive baseball learning environment and exceptional facilities, Wesleyan allows team members to reach their full potential while participating on an historically successful team.

• Tradition
Beginning with its first baseball game in 1865 against Yale, Wesleyan baseball has created a tradition of excellence on the field and off. In a fierce rivalry for the coveted Little Three title with Amherst and Williams, Wesleyan has won the last four titles, and most recently, won the NESCAC conference in 2014 and 2015. In addition, the Cardinals were the No. 1 team in New England in 2015, as well as in 1994, posting a best-ever 30-8 record. Wesleyan continued on to the NCAA Division III World Series in Battle Creek, Mich. and placed second to Wisconsin-Oshkosh, losing in the championship game to current Major League all-star pitcher Jarrod Washburn.

• Success
The Cardinals have had numerous All-NEC, All-New England and All-America recipients over the years, including Craig Brewer ’95 who set a national record for consecutive pitching victories with 21. More recently, Bill Robinson ’03 set eight school offensive records, Jeff Maier ’06 set the school record for career hits, and Drew Dominguez ’09 set the record for hits in a season twice. Donnie Cimino ’15 shattered many of those and holds five school records, while Nick Cooney ’15 holds career and season strikeout records. Dominguez, Cimino, Cooney, Mike Barsotti ’12 and Gavin Pittore ’16 all went on to play professional baseball.

• Spring Trip
The Cardinals’ spring trip is truly unique and one-of-a-kind in college baseball. A two-week trip to Arizona and California features 15 games against opponents from around the country, while creating a team chemistry that resonates for the rest of the player’s lives.

• Practice
Wesleyan’s practices are centered around live on-field hitting and fielding, and are spread out to eliminate academic conflicts. Through this, a focus is placed on the players learning responsibility, resulting in improvement throughout the season and the ability to play relaxed, confident baseball at a highly focused level.

• Andrus Field
Wesleyan baseball plays its home games on the oldest baseball field in the world still in use, dating back to at least 1874. Its natural amphitheater setting amidst Olin Library and Foss Hill fosters a popular place for students, parents and fans to watch games. With outdoor and indoor batting cages, as well as a full-size field house for practices and scrimmages, the team is able to work on its skills independent of weather.

• NESCAC
Once back east following spring break, Wesleyan contends for both the traditional Little Three title, as well as the NESCAC title, which gives the winner an automatic bid to the NCAA Division III tournament.

• Experience
The Wesleyan baseball experience is combined with studying alongside the best minds of today’s generation from professors to students to alumni. With its elite academic reputation and its beautiful campus and facilities on top of the hill overlooking the Connecticut River, Wesleyan baseball players are privy to an extraordinary, multi-faceted experience.

Learning Baseball at Wesleyan

Wesleyan baseball players have experienced extraordinary improvement in their baseball skills because of a positive learning environment.

The Wesleyan baseball coaching staff teach the concept of awareness as the master skill in order to perform well in all these elements. Awareness is defined as paying attention to what is happening in the present moment. When a player is truly aware in the moment, then he plays without doubt or fear and lets his body do what it’s trained to do. In order to incorporate awareness into their games, the emphasis is on the players’ learning to focus, to feel what their bodies are doing, to create a plan, and to work hard. With these four pillars – Focus, Feel, Plan, and Hard Work – players can bring their success in practice into the game.

These are all taught by innovative drills, slow-motion video analysis, experimentation, and self-coaching. The result is players learn the mark of greatness – making minute adjustments at high-speed in the heat of competition. In turn, they are able to have consistent success, therefore trusting themselves, and therefore always playing with confidence.
Mark Woodworth, a 1994 graduate of Wesleyan University, enters his 16th season as Wesleyan’s head baseball coach and member of the faculty. He is part of a unique tradition as he is only the third coach at the school in the last 75 years. An adjunct professor of physical education, he led Wesleyan baseball to NESCAC titles in 2014 and 2015.

In 2015, he was named the NESCAC Coach of the Year for the third consecutive season for Wesleyan winning back-to-back NESCAC championships and reaching the NCAA regional tournament. The Cardinals recorded 30 wins for the second-straight year, had the best ERA and fielding percentages in school history, and led the nation in WHIP. In 2016, the Cardinals won their fourth-straight Little Three title and finished tops in the NESCAC West for the fourth-straight time.

Wesleyan has appeared in the NESCAC Final Four tournament eight times, including six of the last eight seasons. During that time, Woodworth has sent seven players on to professional baseball, including three from the 2015 team.

Woodworth brings a wealth of experience accrued over 29 years of baseball coaching, including 23 at the college level. Before his stint as head coach at Wesleyan, he served as an assistant coach at Amherst College, as well as the head baseball coach at Wentworth Institute of Technology. From 1996-97, he was an assistant coach at Wesleyan, while earning his Master of Arts in Liberal Studies degree.

In 1995, he coached four future major leaguers as an assistant for the Falmouth Commodores in the Cape Cod League, and was also a player in the league for the Wareham Gatemen in 1993. He helped run the annual tryout for the Cape League for 20 years, and has placed eight Wesleyan players in the Cape.

At Wesleyan, Woodworth also teaches and serves as the director of intramurals, as well as assists the soccer and football teams in various capacities. He is also the New England coordinator for the Div. III national coaches poll.

As a player at Wesleyan, Woodworth was a four-year starter at shortstop, graduating as the all-time Wesleyan leader in games played, and sixth in career hits. He was captain of the 1994 Wesleyan team which broke school records en route to winning the NCAA New England title, before playing in the NCAA Division III World Series. The Cardinals finished their run with a berth in the national championship game, finishing runner-up, while posting a previously best-ever 30-8 record. In November 2009, the 1994 team was inducted into the Wesleyan Athletics Hall of Fame.

Woodworth is a native of Norwell, Mass. and a 1990 graduate of Norwell High School. He was a three-sport captain, earning All-South Shore League honors in baseball, soccer and basketball, and was named the South Shore League Small Athlete-of-the-Year in 1990 by WATD-FM. He also participated in numerous summer baseball leagues including American Legion, the Cranberry League, and the Boston Park League.

Woodworth’s purpose as a coach is to teach the lifetime skills of focus and being in the moment through the medium of baseball, which in turn gives baseball great value. An emphasis is placed on enjoying the game, learning to improve technique, creating and implementing a plan, and working hard with inspiring teammates. The result for players who love the game is playing relaxed, confident and aggressive baseball while competing under pressure.

As a supplement to his baseball teachings, Woodworth has combined his two previous books, The Rhythm of Baseball, and The Code of the Game into the Wesleyan Baseball Playbook, about technique, feel and the mental game.

He is married to the former Robin McLellan, a 1997 graduate of Wesleyan University. They have a 10-year-old daughter, Lily Grace Woodworth, and an eight-year-old son, Dylan Samuel Stiles Woodworth.
Bob Wojick • Third Base Coach/Defensive Coordinator

Bob Wojick returns for his fifth season as an instrumental member of the Wesleyan coaching staff. In his 40 years of coaching college baseball, his teams have won 1,308 games and he has never had a losing season. Prior to joining the Cardinals, he served 36 years as an assistant coach at Eastern Connecticut State University. His experience at all facets of the game was a prime reason his teams won the Div. III National Championship four times, appeared in the College World Series 12 times, and played in a regional 31 times.

In 2005, he was named the National Assistant Coach-of-the-Year by the American Baseball Coaches Association and Baseball America magazine. He is the only non-Division I coach to receive the award. In 2009, he was also named the New England Assistant Coach-of-the-Year by the New England Intercolligate Baseball Association.

A three-year letterwinner as an outfielder at Eastern Conn., he joined the coaching staff in 1972. He took five years off to spend more time with his family, before returning in 1995. He was inducted into the Eastern Conn. Hall-of-Fame in 1992.

A 1971 graduate of Eastern Conn. St. with a B.A. in Applied Social Relations, he also received his M.A. in Industrial Education from Central Connecticut State University. He retired after 35 years teaching in the Hartford Public Schools system.

He and his wife Sandy have two grown children, Kimberlee and Brian.

Zach Theulen • Assistant Coach

Zach Theulen joins the Wesleyan coaching staff following two years as an assistant coach at Springfield College and one year at Longmeadow High School.

A 2013 graduate of Bridgeport University, he was a catcher for the Knights, following a season playing for Mass. College of Liberal Arts. He played for the Pittsfield Suns in the Futures League, while after college, played in the California Winter League for the Alberta Grizzly.

Theulen received his Master’s Degree in Advanced Level Coaching from Springfield College and also attended West Springfield High School. A two sport athlete, he was a Western Mass. All-Star in baseball, as well as a member of the basketball team.

Tom Yankus • Special Advisor to the Program

Tom is a member of the Wesleyan baseball coaching staff for his sixth season after an amazing 52 years coaching baseball at Choate Rosemary Hall, one of the very best private high schools in the country.

An alum of Choate, Tom attended Williams College, graduating in 1956 as President of his class. He has since been named to the Williams College All-Time Baseball Team. After graduation, he played professional baseball in the New York Yankees system in leagues from Montana to Washington to North Carolina. He also pitched in the prestigious Cape Cod League, and served as manager of the Orleans Cardinals for nine seasons, coaching, among others, Todd Helton, Nomar Garciappara and Frank Thomas. The Orleans Cardinals’ annual Thomas Yankus Pitching Award is named after him.

An English teacher at Choate, he was inducted into the Choate Athletics Hall of Fame in 1996 and in 2014, the baseball field was named after him. He is married to Julie Oxborough and they have two daughters, Annie and Alex.

Chris Wojick • Pitching Coach/Recruiting Coordinator
Chris Wojick will serve his sixth season as the pitching coach for the Wesleyan Cardinals. His pitching staffs have recorded three of the top four ERA marks in school history, including a record 2.70 in 2015. The Cardinals also led the nation in WHIP and were third in ERA in 2015.

A 2011 graduate of Eastern Connecticut State University, Chris brings a wealth of experience in baseball, including a standout four-year career pitching for the Warriors. Chris finished his career second in all-time appearances with 74 and was named ABCA third-team all-New England in 2008. He had 13 career wins, eight saves in 135.0 innings with 136 strikeouts, and a career 4.13 ERA. He served as the tournament director for the NCAA Division III New England Regional in May of 2012, and in the summer of 2014, he coached the Mystic Schooners in the NECBL.

Chris graduated from Montville (Conn.) High School, and was named to the prestigious All-State team while leading his team to the state title in 2006. He was both a pitcher and catcher for the University of Maine his first-year in college.

He is married to the former Melanie Proud.

Scott Wosleger • Assistant Coach
Scott Wosleger enters his third season on the Wesleyan Baseball staff following an outstanding run as the head baseball coach at East Hampton (Conn.) High School. His team won a state title in 2011 and was ranked the No. 1 high school team in Connecticut. His East Hampton squads won three conference titles, and he was named the 2008 Shoreline Conference Coach of the Year.

Scott also has a host of other coaching experience, including the Mystic Schooners in the NECBL, East Hampton American Legion, and the “Coach Wos” Five Tool Baseball Camp.

A 1986 graduate of Iona College, he was a third baseman on the 1985 MAAC Championship team. He also played on the 1982 University of New Haven team that went to the Div. II College World Series. In high school, he was a captain and All-FCIAC selection in both baseball and basketball at Stamford Catholic High (now Trinity Catholic).

Scott and his wife Laurie have three sons, Tyler, AJ, and Owen who all played for him at East Hampton High.

Giulio Gallarotti • Faculty Advisor
Giulio enters his seventh season as a co-Faculty Advisor to the Wesleyan baseball team. His presence with the team on its annual spring trip to Arizona is a key component of the integration of academics and athletics at the Wesleyan. He is a Professor of Government and a Tutor in the College of Social Studies. He has been a visiting professor at the University of Rome, and has published numerous books and articles.

Giulio received his B.A. from Hunter College, and his PhD from Columbia University. A standout intercollegiate tennis player, he played tournament tennis in the northeastern United States.

Rich Adelstein • Faculty Advisor
Rich Adelstein will serve his 16th season as a co-Faculty Advisor to the Wesleyan baseball team. He is an invaluable member of the staff, serving as a liaison in the quest to align athletic programs with academic and student life.

Prof. Adelstein has been a Professor of Economics at Wesleyan since 1975 and was the winner of the first Wesleyan University Award for Excellence in Teaching in 1993. He also has spent time at Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Oxford.

In addition to his focus on economics, Prof. Adelstein was admitted to the Connecticut Bar in 1978. He received his Ph.D. and J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania, an M.A.A. from Wesleyan, and an M.A.T. from Harvard University. He spent his undergraduate years at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, graduating in 1968 and catching on the varsity baseball team.

Peter Sipples ’64: Peter helped lead his teams to two Little Three titles, hitting .375 as a sophomore, .333 as a senior, and only struck out once in 66 at-bats.

Dave Durian ’75: A left-handed pitcher, Dave had an amazing 1.93 career ERA, winning 16 games, and getting the save in the ECAC championship game.

Jim Lukowski ’84: A four-year starter at third and a four-year starting pitcher; Jim also was a four-year starting quarterback. He graduated with Wesleyan’s career batting average record (.383), and he recorded 21 wins on the mound with a 3.21 ERA.

Mark Consorte ’92: Mark was named first-team All-New England and is Wesleyan’s all-time home run king with 22 career homers. He is third all-time in career batting average (.380) and hit .410 with 5 HR’s in his senior year as Wesleyan won the ECAC title.

Bill Robinson ’03: Bill graduated as Wesleyan’s career hits leader with 168, achieving the record in his final at-bat with a double off the fence. He had a .352 career batting average with 45 doubles and 16 home runs.

Norm Daniels - Coach 1941-1973: Norm was a three-sport athlete at Michigan (Football, Basketball, Baseball), and starting at Wesleyan in 1934, was the football coach for 19 years, and the baseball coach for 33 seasons. His teams won 10 Little Three titles, and he was also a vanguard in civil rights before it was fashionable to do so, refusing to play an opponent when they balked at the race of one of his players’

2016 Class

Tom Young ’59: Tom was captain and catcher for a great Class of 1959 team that went 24-4-1 his last two years and won two Little Three titles.

Phil Rockwell ’65: Phil was an ace left-handed pitcher and co-captain for the Cardinals and was part of two Little Three champion teams including a 14-2 squad in 1964. He went 8-1 in his career with a 3.03 ERA, including 5-1 with a 2.35 ERA as a senior.

Kevin Rose ’78: Kevin had a storied career at the plate for Wesleyan, culminating in being named First-Team All-New England as a senior. He had a .352 career batting average and his .442 average as a sophomore is the second-best season ever. He had seven career home runs and six triples in his senior year.

Steve Donovan ’83: Steve graduated as Wesleyan’s all-time hit leader, he had a .346 career batting average with 152 hits, 32 doubles, eight triples and 10 home runs. His senior year, he hit .393 with five home runs.

Todd Mogren ’83: Todd was named First-Team All-New England as a senior, and still holds two Wesleyan records - for appearances in a season (20) and career innings (289.1). In his senior year, he went 11-1 with a 2.57 ERA in 84 innings.

Jesse Carpenter ’96: Jesse has the highest single-season batting average in Wesleyan history at .446, and was named First-Team All-New England in 1995. A third baseman, his career batting average of .379 is third all-time in school history, and he finished with 30 doubles, four triples, and seven home runs.

Christian Frattasio ’00: Christian was a four-year starter for the Cardinals and had a sparkling .354 career batting average, and graduated fourth all-time in career hits with 146. He had 38 career doubles, as well as six triples and six home runs. He was named First-Team All-NESCAC as a senior.

2017 Class

Cliff Hordlow ’58: Cliff went 7-and-0 with a 1.39 ERA in his senior, beating both Amherst and Williams twice, as well as UConn and Yale. The Cardinals won the Little Three title his senior year and he joins his classmates from the Class of 1959, Tom Young, Dave Darling and Fred Stone, in the Wall of Fame.

Jim Martello ’69: Jim had a career 2.14 ERA with 193 strikeouts in 223 innings. He saved his best for Amherst and Williams though, going an amazing 8-1 over three years with a 0.72 ERA with 71 strikeouts in 88 innings. The highlight was a complete-game 16 shutout innings, in a 1-0 Wesleyan victory.

Chris Vane ’75: A four-year starting centerfielder; Chris was the rare player who batted third in the lineup as a freshman. An on-base machine, he had a career .442 on-base-percentage and incredibly only struck out 26 times in 258 at-bats. His junior year, he hit .346 with 24 walks and only four strikeouts.

Tom Miceli ’81: Tom was an outstanding hitter and four-year starter for the Cardinals, including leading the team in hitting his senior year with a .352 average. Tom’s Cardinal teams won both the Little Three and ECAC titles his junior year. His sons Tommy Jr. ’12 and Nick ’17 also played for Wesleyan.

Jed Hoyer ’96: Jed had a career .364 batting average, including batting .424 his junior year at shortstop. As a pitcher, he had a career 2.46 ERA, a record of 7-1, and 11 career saves, including seven in his senior year. His Cardinal teams went four-straight Little Three titles, and he also played in the Cape Cod League.

Jeffrey Maier ’06: A four-year starter, Jeff graduated as Wesleyan’s all-time leader in hits with 189. He batted over .400 twice, including a standout sophomore year where he hit .403 with five home runs, his senior year where he hit .409 with an exceptional .472 on-base-percentage.

Wesleyan Beats Yale, 6-3, in 150th Anniversary Game

The Wesleyan baseball team beat Yale University, 6-3, on Saturday night, Sept. 28, 2016, in a special, commemorative game honoring the 150th anniversary of both programs. In front of 1,000 people and in their throwback uniforms under the lights of historic Yale Field, the Cardinals used clutch defense, and some timely hitting in the 10th inning to bring home the victory.

More than 50 Wesleyan baseball alumni attended the game at Yale, 150 years after both teams initially squared off on Sept. 30, 1865 in a 39-13 Yale win.

Wesleyan coach Mark Woodworth and Yale coach John Stuper both made opening comments in a ceremony which preceded the contest, followed by remarks by two special guests: Wesleyan’s Jim Dresser ’63 and Yale’s Fay Vincent ’63. Vincent, a graduate of Yale Law School, served as the Commissioner of Major League Baseball from 1989 to 1992. Dresser, for whom Wesleyan’s baseball field is named, is a former chairman of Wesleyan Board of Trustees. Dresser and Yale President Peter Salovey threw out the ceremonial first pitches.

Wesleyan and the Cape Cod League

Wesleyan Baseball has a grand tradition and connection with the Cape Cod Baseball League. The Cardinals have had more players play in the Cape League than any other Division III college in the nation.

Cape League Players - since 1990

- John Hurley (Y-D Red Sox) 1990
- Doug Stead (Y-D Red Sox) 1991

- Guy Davidson (Harwich Mariners) 2014
- Gavin Pittore (Harwich) 2014; (Bourne Braves) 2015
One of Wesleyan baseball’s proudest achievements was its runner-up appearance in the 1994 NCAA Division III World Series and school-best final national ranking of No. 2 in the nation. The team was inducted into the Wesleyan Athletics Hall of Fame in November of 2009.

With a 24-6 regular season, which included the Cardinals’ fourth of six straight Little Three titles and the top rank in New England, Wesleyan hosted the New England Regionals at Palmer Field in Middletown. Led by New England Coach of the Year Peter Kostacoupolous and All-American hurler Craig Brewer ’95, the Cardinals swept through UMass Dartmouth and powerful Southern Maine twice in earning its World Series berth.

In the World Series in Battle Creek, Mich., the winning continued. In topping the College of Wooster (Ohio) and Carthage (Wisc.), the Cardinals used a familiar formula for success: great pitching, error-free defense and clutch hitting. After Wesleyan fell short against Wisconsin-Oshkosh in the winner’s bracket final, Brewer collected his second World Series victory in beating UC-San Diego, earning Wesleyan another shot at Oshkosh. In Wesleyan’s final ballgame of an amazing season, Oshkosh freshman Jarrod Washburn (and future major league all-star) spread out nine hits in leading his squad to a 6-2 win that closed out the national title. For the Cardinals, they posted a 30-8 record and a season to remember.

A Spring Trip Tradition

Wesleyan baseball tradition is the team’s annual spring trip in March. Thanks to a two-week break from school, the Cardinals get the opportunity to play 15 games over 17 days without concern for missing any classes or academic work.

Wesleyan baseball was an innovator in making treks to warmer climates, starting with Jack Blott and Norm Daniels as the first northern coaches to take their teams on spring-break trips. In 1939, the Cardinals took their first trip to Washington, D.C. and Richmond, Va. Soon after, Wesleyan started going to the Miami, Fla. area, a tradition that continued until 2003.

The present-day trip features a focus on going out west. Since 2004, the Cardinals have gone to California and Arizona, with the current squad spending most of its time in Arizona, including playing many games on the spring training fields of Major League teams.

Key elements of the trip include the shaping of the team on both the physical and mental level, in order to be prepared for conference play. The team not only gets tested in games against some of the best Division III teams in the nation, but meshes together through diligent practice and focus on the mind-set essential for success in baseball.

There are many highlights of the trip every year in addition to the thrill of competition. Over the years, Wesleyan baseball has had alumni games on its spring trip, been hosted by numerous families, and experienced the region, including attending spring training and college baseball games, as well as having team functions and trips to the ocean and surrounding areas.

2017 Wesleyan University Baseball
Wesleyan’s first varsity baseball game took place at Yale on September 30, 1865, where the Cardinals lost 39-13. Wesleyan played one or two games a year sporadically from 1865 through 1887. In 1888, Wesleyan played an eight-game season, going 5-3. From that point on, Wesleyan played a consistent schedule of games each year with the exception of 1917. Wesleyan’s combined cumulative record for all seasons is 1337-1267-36.

WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

Wesleyan is a coeducational, private university of the liberal arts and sciences. Serving 2,900 undergraduates and 200 full-time graduate students, Wesleyan is located in Middletown, Conn., alongside the Connecticut River midway between Hartford and New Haven.

Wesleyan offers a challenging academic environment that promotes independent thought and action. The intellectual atmosphere encourages students to think critically, to express their thoughts clearly, and to value the ideas and opinions of others.

Wesleyan offers majors in 44 fields, and a student-faculty ratio of 9:1. Students hail from all 50 states and more than 45 foreign countries.

Wesleyan’s approach to education is at once highly individualistic and academically rigorous. The University does not require that freshmen take certain prescribed courses. Rather, students develop their own unique programs of study, programs that reflect each student’s own interests and are created with the help and encouragement of Wesleyan faculty.

Wesleyan has described a set of guiding principles that define its approach to liberal education. These principles are summed up in ten essential capabilities that the faculty believe every undergraduate should possess when he or she graduates from Wesleyan. The University also maintains a set of general education expectations in the arts and humanities, the social sciences, and the natural sciences.

TEN CAPABILITIES

Writing
The ability to write coherently and effectively. This skill implies the ability to reflect on the writing process and to choose a style, tone, and method of argumentation appropriate to the intended audience.

Speaking
The ability to speak clearly and effectively. This skill involves the ability to articulate and advocate for ideas, to listen, to express in words the nature and import of artistic works, and to participate effectively in public forums, choosing the level of discourse appropriate to the occasion.

Interpretation
The ability to understand, evaluate, and contextualize meaningful forms, including written texts, objects, practices, performances, and sites. This includes (but is not limited to) qualitative responses to subjects, whether in language or in a non-verbal artistic or scientific medium.

Quantitative Reasoning
The ability to understand and use numerical ideas and methods to describe and analyze quantifiable properties of the world. Quantitative reasoning involves skills such as making reliable measurements, using statistical reasoning, modeling empirical data, formulating mathematical descriptions and theories, and using mathematical techniques to explain data and predict outcomes.

Logical Reasoning
The ability to make, recognize, and assess logical arguments. This skill involves extracting or extending knowledge on the basis of existing knowledge through deductive inference and inductive reasoning.

Designing, Creating, and Realizing
The ability to design, create, and build. This skill might be demonstrated through scientific experimentation to realize a research endeavor, a theater or dance production, or creation of works such as a painting, a film, or a musical composition.

Ethical Reasoning
The ability to reflect on moral issues in the abstract and in historical narratives within particular traditions. Ethical reasoning is the ability to identify, assess, and develop ethical arguments from a variety of ethical positions.

Intercultural Literacy
The ability to understand diverse cultural formations in relation to their wider historical and social contexts and environments. Intercultural literacy also implies the ability to understand and respect another point of view. Study of a language not one’s own, contemporary or classical, is central to this skill. The study of a language embedded in a different cultural context, whether in North America or abroad, may also contribute to this ability.

Information Literacy
The ability to locate, evaluate, and effectively use various sources of information for a specific purpose. Information literacy implies the ability to judge the relevance and reliability of information sources as well as to present a line of investigation in an appropriate format.

Effective Citizenship
The ability to analyze and develop informed opinions on the political and social life of one’s local community, one’s country, and the global community, and to engage in constructive action if appropriate. As with Intercultural Literacy, study abroad or in a different cultural context within North America may contribute to a firm grasp of this ability.
ATHLETICS AT WESLEYAN

Athletics at Wesleyan are recognized as a contributing factor in the overall education of the student. The presentation of a diversified program is in harmony with an academic philosophy designed to offer each student a variety of options for a meaningful liberal arts education.

Wesleyan University has a long and rich athletic tradition dating back to the Agalian Baseball Club formed in 1865. In June 1974, Wesleyan graduated its first class of women since 1912, and the athletic program has grown, now featuring 29 varsity sports.

Wesleyan has had 30 athletes named to the CoSida Academic All-America team since its inception in 1972, and has sent teams to the NCAA tournament in 10 team sports. Highlights include a second-place finish in the 1994 NCAA Division III World Series by the baseball team and Final Four appearances by the men’s lacrosse team in 2006 and 2007. Individual athletes in swimming and diving, track and field, tennis and wrestling have also had national success, including national championships to their credit.

Wesleyan athletes have also made their mark outside of intercollegiate competition, most notably Amby Burfoot ’68, who won the Boston Marathon as a senior at Wesleyan, and Bill Belichick ’75, head coach of the New England Patriots, who has won five Super Bowl titles as a head coach. Eric Mangini ’94, his former assistant with the Patriots, was the head coach of the New York Jets and the Cleveland Browns. Former baseball player Jed Hoyer ’96 is currently the general manager of the Chicago Cubs. Four Wesleyan women have won Division III national championships: Eudice Chong ’18 in women’s tennis (twice), Jenna Flateman ’05 in indoor track, Holly Sorenson ’95 in swimming and Karen Borza ’84 in outdoor track. Kathy Keeler ’78 helped the United States win a gold medal in rowing at the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles as part of the women’s open eight. In addition, Bill Rodgers ’70 won numerous Boston and New York Marathons, Jeff Wilner ’94 played in the NFL for the Green Bay Packers and New England Patriots, and Amos Magee ’93 played MLS soccer.

THE LITTLE THREE

The fierce Little Three rivalry between Wesleyan, Williams and Amherst is believed to be America’s oldest, continuous intercollegiate athletic conference without a membership change. Little Three championships are contested in 26 sports throughout the academic year.

The three schools first formally banded together in 1899 as the Triangular League. In 1905, the Williams Athletic Council voted to consider the football games with Amherst and Wesleyan as championship contests. When Wesleyan and Amherst re-established competition in 1910, the present rivalry was underway. Since then, it has continued virtually unbroken and is considered a focal point of the season for the three teams.

THE NESCAC

Founded in 1971, the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC), a group of eleven highly selective liberal arts colleges and universities, share a similar philosophy for intercollegiate athletics. The conference was created out of a concern for the direction of intercollegiate athletic programs, and remains committed to maintaining athletics as an integral part of a liberal education.

NESCAC student-athletes are not only prominent for their academic accomplishments, but have been incredibly successful on the field. NESCAC teams have won 119 national team championships while 238 women and 121 men have won individual national titles.

Members of the NESCAC are Amherst, Bates, Bowdoin, Colby, Connecticut, Hamilton, Middlebury, Trinity and Williams College, and Tufts and Wesleyan University.
