Johnson & Wales University

Johnson & Wales University (JWU), founded in 1914, is a nonprofit, private, accredited institution with campuses in Providence, R.I.; North Miami, Fla.; Denver, Colo.; and Charlotte, N.C. An innovative educational leader, JWU offers a broad range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs that inspire professional success and lifelong personal and intellectual growth by integrating arts & sciences and experiential education with leadership and personal development opportunities. For more information, visit www.jwu.edu.

Johnson & Wales plans to award up to $140 million in financial aid in the 2016-2017 academic year. Students who are representatives of specific organizations such as DECA, BPA, FBLA, SkillsUSA, National FFA, FCCLA and TSA may also be eligible to receive JWU scholarship money.

Campus tours are conducted daily during the week and on selected Saturdays and Sundays. For those who live more than six hours from Rhode Island, we offer low-cost fly-in programs on designated weekends.

For further information, please contact Admissions at 1-800-DIAL-JWU or 401-598-2310.

JWU Coaching Staff

Head Coach John LaRose, the 2013 GNAC Coach of the Year, has completed his 17th year at the helm of JWU baseball. During his tenure the Wildcats have established a reputation for consistency and tenacity, winning a record number of games against top teams throughout New England and the Midwest, capturing a pair of GNAC regular season championships and winning a share of the ECAC Championship, the first post-season tournament championship in the school's history.

Coach LaRose's roots are deep in Rhode Island baseball. Building on a stellar high school career where he earned All-State honors at Shea High School (Pawtucket, R.I.), he added Academic All-Big East during his senior year at Providence College. Upon graduation, he coached teams at North Smithfield High School and the University of Rhode Island before bringing his drive and determination to the Wildcats.

Assistant Coach Jeff LaRose brings the same drive and determination to the game as his brother John. An outstanding athlete at Shea High School, he played his college ball at St. Leo's, CCRI and Whittier College. Under his tutelage, Wildcat pitchers have become models of consistency, leading the conference every year in a number of categories.

Jim LaRose makes it three brothers on the team. After finishing his stellar playing career at Shea, he moved on to Worcester State, where he competed in both football and baseball. After graduation, he spent several years coaching baseball and football at St. Raphael Academy in Pawtucket. In addition to assisting with the hitters, he works very closely with the Wildcat outfitters, developing them into a formidable defensive unit.

Rich Fonseca recently completed his fifth season on the JWU coaching staff, working with the infielders and hitters.

Kevin Dolan just finished his fourth year with the JWU program. Kevin came to the program after several years coaching at different levels locally in Cranston, R.I.
